BANKERS JOIN NEWSPAPERS IN PRAISING MOVE

"Hopeful and Not Discouraging Event," J. P. Morgan Declares in London

Daily Mail and Daily Express Jubilant; See Trade and Exports Stimulated

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (Chief of London Bureau, Associated Press)

(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press)
London, Sept. 21.—J. P. Morgan to-day expressed to the Associated Press optimism regarding the situation arising from Great Britain's sensational suspension of the gold standard. He said it was a "hopeful and not a discouraging event."

Several other financiers expressed similar opinions. Without exception, they held the view that the government's latest step is in the right direction and that Britain will weather her crisis.

Indeed, one of the most hopeful signs these financial experts find is that Britain does recognize the situation is serious and is attacking her problem from that standpoint.

Other financial commentators requested that their names be withheld but here are some of the points made by several bankers, all of whom are widely known:

Suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain not only was unexpected, but was a logical and foregone conclusion.

"From the standpoint of the financial expert it was the correct move."

"The only criticism offered is that it should have been done before."

"Far from being disconcerting, this move has cleared the atmosphere."

RUN BY GREAT BRITAIN STOPPED
"What has happened is that Britain, as a banker, has stopped a run on her institution. People all the world over were cashing their British securities here in London."

Individuals did not realize the magnitude of the operations and did not recognize that they really were participating in a financial emergency.

"But it was apparent to London and the government stepped in and stopped cashing securities in and out of the country."

phased the fact that not only unemployment but under-employment must be considered. When, he said, under-employment drops to the stage where the worker does not receive enough to support himself and his dependants, then it is a menace quite as serious as unemployment.

"If," he added, "replacement of steam shovels by hand shovels is the best our leaders can do, then they should be consistent and commence tearing down our technical schools."

OVER 200 DELEGATES
Delegates to the total of 225 and more than seventy-five guests had registered when Colin MacDonald, president of Vancouver and New Westminster District Trades and Labor Council called the congress to order.

The ballroom of Hotel Vancouver was well filled and auditors filled the galleries.

CANADA TO STAY ON GOLD BASIS BENNETT SAYS

Ottawa Shows No Fears of Injurious Effect of British Move on Canada; Montreal Bank Presidents See Change as Constructive

(By the Canadian Press)

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—The Government of Canada proposes to maintain the gold standard.

This was the brief statement of Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, Prime Minister and Acting Minister of Finance, in respect to news from London of suspension of the Gold Redemption Act.

"What Great Britain may do is for the government of Great Britain to determine," said Mr. Bennett. "As for Canada, we propose to maintain the gold standard."

The Prime Minister added that he had nothing further to say on the matter.

REDEEMABLE IN GOLD
Provision for redemption of Dominion notes in gold is the important feature of the gold standard, it was explained by an official of the Finance Department. Under the act a note of the Dominion of Canada is redeemable in gold. It is also provided that there shall be no restriction on the movement of gold in Canada. Canada is now on the gold basis and a note of the Dominion may be exchanged for gold on presentation.

NO APPREHENSION IN OTTAWA
While officials of the Finance Department were reluctant to express any opinion as to the effect of the temporary abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain, little apprehension was expressed in Ottawa.

Fire Broke Out in Tokio, But Quickly Extinguished; Experts Claim It Was Worst Quake Since 1923; Houses Destroyed and Telephones Down; Tremors in Ohio and Indiana

Associated Press
Tokio, Sept. 21.—Tokio and other sections of central Japan were shaken severely by an earthquake at 11:20 a.m. to-day, 9:20 p.m. Sunday, eastern standard time. The first report of casualties said fourteen persons had been killed. More than 100 injured and twenty houses destroyed in Saitama prefecture, Saitama prefecture, where the shock apparently centred, was believed to have suffered greatest. Telephone wires between Tokio and Osaka, Nagoya and other cities, were broken.

Several fires broke out in Tokio, but were extinguished quickly.

Experts of the Tokyo central observatory said the quake was the most severe of this year.

Its intensity is said to have equalled the great quake of 1923.

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 21.—More than a dozen cities and towns in portions of Ohio and Indiana were severely shaken last night by subterranean tremors, the most pronounced in this section since 1811, when the entire Ohio River valley was affected.

Although attended by intense excitement among householders, the quake did comparatively little damage and caused no loss of life.

Men Remained Afloat 148 Hours Before Rescued, Message States

Halifax, N.S., Sept. 21.—All three fliers, recently lost on a flight from Portugal to New York, were found to-day. The Norwegian motorship Belmoira picked up Willy Rody, Christian Johanssen and Fernando Da Costa Viega at sea.

The Belmoira, bound for Russia from Albany, N.Y., reported this morning finding the wreckage of the plane in which Willy Rody and Fernando Da Costa Viega and Christian Johanssen left Lisbon for New York. The motorship sighted the wreckage off the Newfoundland coast near where it was last seen in the air by the Ss. Pennland.

Later another message came from the Belmoira reporting that two of the fliers had been taken from the wreckage. Still a third message brought word that all three were saved.

The three fliers hopped off from Lisbon September 13. On the following day the Steamship Pennland reported sighting the plane 395 miles east of Halifax.

London Sees Stimulation of Industry and Export Trade as Following Abandonment Temporarily of Currency Standard; Heavy Withdrawal From Britain Compel Premier MacDonald and Cabinet to Take Action Over the Week-end; Stock Exchanges Are Closed in Britain

British Financial Situation And Results At a Glance

By The Associated Press

Confronted with a financial crisis, Great Britain yesterday suspended its Gold Redemption Act and took other emergency measures which were generally regarded by bankers everywhere as constructive.

The other steps taken:
Closed the London Stock Exchange and other exchanges in the country during Monday.

Raised the Bank of England discount rate from 4½ to 6 per cent. Prepared to rush through Parliament to-day legislation confirming the cabinet's action.

Warned the country that further restrictions will be authorized if they are made necessary.

Banks, however, will operate as usual and the government advised a policy of "business as usual" throughout the country.

In New York it was stated $500,000,000 Franco-American credits extended to the British Government and the Bank of England recently will not be affected.

Canadians with sterling balances in British banks will suffer a considerable depreciation, but such balances are small.

Conversely, Canadians who have their funds in dollars and owe money in Britain or contemplate purchases in Britain will benefit.

Canadian and United States bankers are in sympathy with the emergency measures adopted.

Besides stock exchanges in Britain, the Berlin, Brussels, Oslo, Stockholm, Amsterdam, Johannesburg and Calcutta exchanges were closed. The Toronto and Montreal exchanges decided to open on a "restricted basis."

The House in Paris remained open, but the official exchange market was closed and no official currency quotations were made.

The New York Stock Exchange also opened as usual, but the governing board issued a notice prohibiting short selling.

While Great Britain's drastic step in suspending the Gold Redemption Act of 1925 to halt alarming withdrawals of gold came with dramatic suddenness, confidence was expressed in numerous quarters that Britain would weather the financial storm successfully.

J. P. Morgan, in reply to questions by The Associated Press in London, expressed optimism regarding the situation and declared that Great Britain's action was a "hopeful and not a discouraging event."

In Washington no adverse reaction of major importance was expected and confidence was expressed by treasury officials that England would extricate herself quickly from the confusion.

Prices on commodity exchanges in London increased and on the metal exchange copper rose more than $2 a ton. Tin was nearly $6 a ton higher, while at Liverpool cotton advanced almost a halfpenny a pound to just over fourpence.

Pound sterling tumbled to around the $4.00 level in New York, off 85 cents overnight.

Canadian dollar slumped to a discount of between 5 and 6 per cent.

British's Premier Explains Gold Move
Associated Press
London, Sept. 21.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald, following the Sunday cabinet meeting at 10 Downing Street, issued the following statement setting out the reasons which led to the government's decision to abandon the gold standard:

"His Majesty's government have decided after consultation with the Bank of England that it has become necessary to suspend for the time being operation of the sub-section of the Gold Standard Act of 1925, which required the bank to sell gold at a fixed price."

"The reasons which led to this decision are as follows:

Canadian Press Cable
London, Sept. 21.—Announcement of the temporary suspension of the Gold Standard Act, which it is understood will be for six months, has been well received by the British press. Several newspapers appeared to share the view of the late William Jennings Bryan, famous United States Democrat, that the gold standard was "crucifying humanity."

London, Sept. 21.—(Associated Press)—Abandoning the gold standard, raising the Bank of England discount rate to 6 per cent and closing all stock exchanges, Great Britain wrestled to-day with the most critical financial situation since the Great War.

Brought back from his country home at Chequers by the Prince of Wales, Premier Ramsay MacDonald hastily convened a cabinet meeting last night and it was decided that the Gold Redemption Act of 1925 would be suspended to halt alarming withdrawals of gold by foreign investors.

NECESSARY LEGISLATION
Parliament is expected to pass the enabling legislation to-day after which it will go to the King in Scotland for his approval.

The bank rate was raised from 4½ per cent to six per cent. A figure which was set in July. It has not been up to six per cent since October 31, 1929. The highest it has been since the war was seven per cent, and the highest during the war was ten per cent.

HOUSE MEETING TENSE
Faced with the government's decision reached at the cabinet meeting yesterday to protect the financial position of Great Britain by suspending the section of the Gold Standard Act compelling the Bank of England to sell gold in bars at a stated price and the closing of the London Stock Exchange to-day and to-morrow, the House met in a tense atmosphere this afternoon.

Transfer of West Indies to Canada Is Again Suggested

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 21.—The suggestion that the British West Indies, including Bermuda, should be transferred by Britain to Canada, was made by Sir Harry Armstrong, former British Consul-General at New York, in a letter to The Times to-day.

Sir Harry wrote in connection with rumors concerning the purchase of the British West Indies in liquidation of Britain's debt to the United States. He said that in view of the many cases in recent years in which certain British islands hitherto under the authority of the crown, have been transferred to the dominions, it seemed to him very desirable that the West Indies be transferred to the Canadian Government.

"There are excellent lines of steamers between Canadian ports and the West Indies," Sir Harry pointed out. "The natural markets of the West Indies are the United States and Canada, and trade would undoubtedly rapidly develop, while additional capital for development of the island would be obtainable. And the British Government would be relieved of considerable needless administrative expense. The arrangement would enable Canada to increase her navy to replace the British squadron stationed in the West Indies."

Feeling Against Japan Is Rising In Nanking

Chiang Kai-shek Calls Emergency Meeting of Ministers; C. T. Wang Says China Cannot Surrender Country Inherited Through Centuries From Forefathers

Nanking, China, Sept. 21.—Chiang Kai-shek, head of the Chinese Nationalist Government returned to the capital today aboard a cruiser and immediately called an emergency meeting of government leaders to discuss the Manchurian situation.

C. T. Wang, foreign minister, addressing the government's memorial meeting this morning, said: "We may lose our lives, we may lose our homes, but we cannot surrender any part of the country inherited through centuries from our forefathers."

Throughout Nanking, feeling against Japan was running high because of the occupation of Mukden and other Manchurian cities by Japanese troops. Many mass meetings were largely attended.

Students paraded the streets wearing mourning bands and carrying banners inscribed "Death Before Surrender."

The government designated next Wednesday as "National Day" in connection with the Manchurian trouble.

Lloyd George Urges Unity In Face Of Crisis

London, Sept. 21.—David Lloyd George, veteran Liberal leader, on learning of the sudden turn in the British financial situation, issued the following statement:

"If the nation remains steady and united we shall pull through all right. Our resources are quite adequate to meet the situation, but a national crisis among ourselves at this juncture would be unpatriotic lunacy."

"The mere threat of such a fight has precipitated this second and graver crisis among ourselves. If it is given a chance, will find a way out."

three defense services, the Premier said, would be cut 10 per cent, except for the higher rates for commissioner officers in the defense service.

This announcement was of particular interest as men of the lower ranks of the navy had complained that reductions for some of them would reach 25 per cent, leading recently to a protest and a short "passage strike."

Teachers also have been protesting against a possible 15 per cent cut in their pay.

SNOWDEN BRINGS IN GOLD BILL

It was an hour after the House convened before the vital business of the day could be tackled. Shortly before 5:30 p.m. Mr. Snowden introduced a bill to amend the gold standard act, 1925, to provide for the suspension of the gold standard and to give the government power to issue paper money in connection with the gold standard suspension.

Mr. Snowden said the bill would not affect the free gold market in London. There would be no restrictions on the importation or exportation of gold, he declared, and no impediment would be placed on the free flow of gold into or out of the country.

The bill was passed by the House by a large majority.

CHANCELLOR ON ALL SIDES

The Chancellor of the Exchequer explained that the Bank of England also stated that the government's action on New York and Paris continued, while the bank had been subjected to a drain of gold by Holland.

UNABLE TO MEET GOLD DEMAND

The bank went on to say it could not continue to meet the gold demand and recommended the action now taken.

In the course of an outline of recent financial events, Mr. Snowden explained that the government's decision to suspend the gold standard was a result of the bank's inability to meet the gold demand.

CREDITS EXHAUSTED

The British Government, he explained, had received from the Bank of England a letter saying that France's United States credits arranged by the government had been exhausted and that French credits arranged by the British Government were also exhausted.

Regarding a suggestion which had been made of mobilizing the foreign securities owned by Great Britain, Mr. Snowden said that the government had decided against this.

FLIERS PLAN TO LEAVE NOME FOR SEATTLE

Moyle and Cecil Allen, who were unsuccessful recently in an attempt to span the Pacific Ocean from Japan to Seattle in one hop.

Nearly frozen and tired, the two aviators swooped down on the airport here at 6:05 o'clock (9:05 P.S.T.) yesterday evening after a hazardous flight from the coast of Siberia.

We are pretty glad to return to American soil again," were the first words uttered by Moyle as he climbed out of the big plane Cessna Madge. "We are feeling fine, although we had a close shave in freezing weather."

Numerous showmen and freezing temperatures taxed the efforts of the Californians as they battled their way over Bering Sea. Moyle said storms forced them to fly far to the Siberian coast before crossing the sea to Alaska.

Moyle and Allen hopped off from Samuhiro Beach, Japan, September 7, on an attempt to make a non-stop flight to Seattle. Nothing was heard of them until Moyle sent a wireless message to his fiancée, Miss Frances Bresson of Riverside, Calif., nine days later. They had landed on an uninhabited island and were picked up by the Russian steamer Buriat.

The aviators, on arrival here, said they were unable to obtain aviation gasoline in Siberia and used a diesel fuel to make the trip here. The fuel burned a large hole in the exhaust pipe stack, but otherwise the plane was in good condition.

The fliers left Siberia on Monday and arrived in Nome, the day before Sunday, because of the difference in time between the international date line.

MOSLEY HURT IN GLASGOW

Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 21.—Sir Oswald Mosley, British Independent political leader, was assailed with sticks and stones yesterday evening as he left Glasgow Green after addressing a crowd of about 40,000 people.

He was struck on the back of the head with a stone, but only slightly injured. Three others of the party that occupied the platform, however, received slight razor cuts, while others had their clothes slashed.

During the address the crowd interrupted Sir Oswald continuously and the "International" and the "Red Flag" were sung at intervals.

WORLD SELLING PANIC ON

There was a selling panic throughout the world, the Chancellor declared, and Britain had to protect herself.

"Our internal position is secure and it is vital for us to retain that position," Mr. Snowden went on.

The initial effect of the British action might be serious, but he believed it would be temporary and that those who had confidence in sterling would not find their confidence misplaced.

Mr. Snowden said there ought to be some recognition on the part of the other creditor power of their responsibility for the present situation.

WITHDRAWALS TO BLAME

"The world must learn that the existing economic situation cannot be maintained if everybody tries simultaneously to liquidate their investments," he declared. "That system plays fast and loose with the machinery of credit."

It was one thing, Mr. Snowden went on, to go off the gold standard with an unbalanced budget and uncontrolled inflation. It was far less serious to take the present measures, he declared, not because of international financial difficulties, but because of

WHAT THE GOLD STANDARD IS

By the Associated Press

The gold standard of exchange is normally in use by virtually every civilized nation of the world. It is predicated on the fact that paper money is a country's bank of issue is redeemable in gold on demand.

The suspension of gold payments in Great Britain means that the Bank of England is not bound under an act of parliament of 1925 to buy gold bullion of stipulated standards for three pounds seventeen shillings, and ten and one-half pence per troy ounce.

In effect, has resulted in the British pound sterling being equivalent normally to $4.86.

In the foreign exchange market recently, with the pound sterling available below its gold parity, in relation to other currencies, it has been profitable for banks to acquire sterling pounds in the market, convert them into gold at parity, and then convert the gold into other currencies by exporting the gold.

The pound sterling was pegged in New York during the war at $4.76. It reached this artificial height by means of securities sale of dollars held by British citizens.

In 1919, it was decided to remove the support, and the sterling dropped, until finally in 1919 it hit a new low of $4.19.

The gold standard has been adopted by most every country since the war.

THIS RAISE IN BANK RATE

THIS is the third time that the bank rate has been raised since it touched its lowest post-war figure of 2 1/4 per cent last May. On July 22 the rate was raised to 3 1/4 per cent and in the following week to 4 1/4, at which figure it remained until today.

The bank rate has not stood at six per cent since October 31, 1929, in that month it was reduced from 6 1/4 per cent. The highest figure at which it has stood since 1914 is 10 per cent, to which it was raised two years before the declaration of war on August 4, 1914.

There is no record of the rate ever before having been changed on Sunday. The highest it has been since the day of the war was 12 per cent, at which it stood from April, 1920, to April, 1921. On April 28, 1921, it dropped to 6 1/4 per cent and in the following June to 6. In September, 1929, it again touched 6 1/4, but was reduced in October to 5 and in November to 4 1/4.

BANKERS ON HAND

Upon his return to London Friday night Prime Minister MacDonald tried to get in touch with several of his ministers, but was unsuccessful, most of them having gone for the week-end in a peaceful frame of mind as himself.

Bankers and treasury representatives were on hand, however, and the Prime Minister conferred with them.

It is understood he was informed that Bank of England officials had made up their mind they could not maintain sterling on a gold basis, but that they would like to have an opportunity of testing the markets on Saturday.

NO DRAFTS ISSUED

Orders were given inside the various banks not to issue drafts abroad in connection with the dealing in foreign exchange and until this question is cleared up no quotations are being made.

NO FOREIGN QUOTATIONS

The foreign exchange market, usually busy on Monday mornings, is not making quotations for the present. It is understood that there would be no quotations for the present.

HEAVY LOSSES SATURDAY

It was thought that Saturday, being a half day, might be fairly safe and even if the day's operations were against the pound sterling, the loss would not be very serious.

The Prime Minister received a report Saturday that over $2,000,000 was lost on the half-day trading and that this did not represent the complete account. Some particulars had still to come in. Later he was told the loss actually amounted to $10,000,000 (about $50,000,000).

CONFIDENCE LACKING

The recent work of the new government in affecting economies and balancing the budget apparently indicated that stabilization would be achieved, but as one prominent observer put it today, "Lack of confidence, however, has been the chief factor."

From this country and go more and more into countries which have deposited money with us, our position being that of international bankers.

NAVY "STRIKE" A FACTOR

"The happenings at Invergordon, Scotland, where the sailors of the navy protested their pay cuts," this observer said, "gave the country a bad shock and alarmed the foreign countries. Alarming statements of the naval troubles were published abroad and these also emphasized the situation. Complications of these circumstances produced an avalanche which broke last Thursday and came down with full force on Friday morning."

GOLD ACT SUSPENSION

This part of the Gold Standard Act which is being suspended compels the Bank of England to sell gold in bars at a fixed price. The objects of it are to stop the export of gold from Great Britain.

Sub-section 3 of the act, which will continue in force for six months after the passage of today's act in Parliament, authorizes taking such measures in relation to exchanges and otherwise as may be considered expedient for meeting difficulties arising in connection with the suspension of the gold standard.

PRICES RISE IN BRITAIN AS POUND DECLINES

London, Sept. 21.—Prices on commodity exchanges increased today following the temporary suspension of the gold standard by the government.

On the metal exchange in London copper rose more than $2 a ton to 80 shillings 6 pence. Tin was nearly $2 a ton higher at $17.

At Liverpool cotton advanced almost a half penny a pound at just over four pence.

TURN FOR WORSE FRIDAY

He left Downing Street Friday evening, believing everything was going normally, but shortly after his return the material he received information on the course of events in other world capitals during the afternoon.

Throughout the whole of Saturday he was engaged in a long series of consultations and meetings with those most closely in touch with the situation. He returned to Chequers Saturday evening.

The rapid march of events then caused the Prime Minister to call the special cabinet meeting at which the decision was made to suspend the gold standard immediately.

PRINCE OF WALES COMES IN

The Prince of Wales temporarily left London for the country on Saturday morning.

CANADA TO STAY ON GOLD BASIS, BENNETT SAYS

preliminary was apparent. Canada is on a gold basis. It is not anticipated that the situation in London will influence the Canadian financial position except indirectly.

MACAULAY SAYS RESULT WILL BE GOOD

Montreal, Sept. 21.—T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Assurance Company, made the following statement:

"The development has been foreseen in financial circles for some time. It was bound to come though few of us expected it would come so soon. It is, however, by no means an unmitigated evil and its effect can easily be misinterpreted."

"The abandonment of the gold standard is really the beginning of the solution of our financial problems and I am convinced will, in the end, prove a highly desirable move, and the first step towards good times in the Old Country. The immediate effect will be disturbance, but its long distance effect will be good."

NO DRASTIC EFFECT FOR CANADA

Probable prevention of withdrawal of funds from the London market, further depression of British War Loan bonds, but no drastic consequences as far as Canada was concerned, were favorable basis as the exchange was stabilized."

Sir Charles's statement continued: "This development has been foreseen by various events during the past few days, including the general decline in the security market. I have no doubt that this action will temporarily make it more difficult to procure sterling exchange on the old basis. It may also prevent the British purchase of raw materials, such as cotton from United States, on as favorable basis as if the exchange was stabilized."

HOLT URGES LABOR COST CUT

Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said: "Canada should not be adversely affected in any way. England should now concentrate on balancing her budget and seek to further her trade with the Dominions."

Sir Holt added that Britain should now raise her tariff to reduce domestic employment, should reduce labor costs and should bring industry as a whole to a more modern basis.

HOWARD FERGUSON ALSO TALKS

Toronto, Sept. 21.—The suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain should protect the British financial position, said Howard Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner in London, who is on a visit to Canada.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Britain will come through this crisis satisfactorily because she has tremendous resources, not only in her own country but in her interest abroad," he said.

Sir Howard added that Britain should now raise her tariff to reduce domestic employment, should reduce labor costs and should bring industry as a whole to a more modern basis.

BRITAIN'S PREMIER EXPLAINS GOLD MOVE

"It has been arranged that the Stock Exchange shall not be open on Monday, the day on which Parliament is passing necessary legislation. This will not, however, interfere with business or the current settlement of the Stock Exchange, which will be carried on as usual."

"His Majesty's Government have no reason to believe that the present difficulties are due to any substantial extent to the export of capital by British nations. Undoubtedly the bulk of withdrawals has been for foreign accounts."

"The desire, however, to repeat emphatically the warning given by the Chancellor of the Exchequer that any British citizen who increases the strain on exchanges by purchasing foreign securities himself or assists others to do so is deliberately adding to the country's difficulties."

"The government has undertaken to co-operate in restricting the purchase by British citizens of foreign exchange except those required for actual needs, such as for the purchase of foreign contracts and should further measure prove to be advisable His Majesty's government will not hesitate to take them."

"His Majesty's government have arrived at their decision with the greatest reluctance. But during the last ten days the international financial markets have become demoralized and have been liquidating their sterling assets regardless of their intrinsic worth. In the circumstances there was no alternative but to take the drastic position of this country by the only means at our disposal."

AIM AT BALANCED BUDGET

"His Majesty's government are securing a balanced budget and the internal position of this country is satisfactory. The ultimate aim is to get the gold standard with an unbalanced budget and uncontrolled inflation. It is quite essential to take this measure not because of internal financial difficulties but because of excessive withdrawals of borrowed capital."

"The ultimate resources of this country are enormous and there is no doubt that the present exchange difficulties will prove only temporary."

LABOR CONGRESS OPENS SESSIONS

Mr. MacDonald spoke of present conditions and attempted to show that the situation was not so serious as it appeared and that the present relief measures were being taken.

Acting Mayor John Bennett, after welcoming delegates, announced that Vancouver is a good commentary on our system of government in a country which was never richer. It is a commentary on this social system which we have built up."

MATLAND SPEAKS

"If Labor does not hold its own times like these, she will lose all she has gained in the last 100 years," declared Hon. R. L. Matland, Minister without Portfolio in the British Columbia Government. He prefaced his remarks with a tribute to the leadership of President Tom Moore. Lord Head.

Need to-day is membership as leadership, he said.

"The great struggle of the individual today is to keep his mind normal," continued Mr. Matland. "There are many things, but one thing is certain: The condition is the one of the greatest aggravations what we call hysteria. Government can help the individual, but it is up to him to make it so. He must grow up from sound conditions."

Need of good leadership is a clear thinking were emphasized. Hon. W. A. McKenzie, Province Minister of Labor, Angus Melvin M.P., Vancouver, was warmly welcomed by the political branch of Labor's activities.

"I can't see the use of organs to protect ourselves from employment and then turning around and electing those same employers to make laws of the country," he declared. "I hope Labor will take cognizance of its political power. Let us use it, arms, the industrial and the political."

Before Mr. MacDonald handed over the chair to Mr. Moore he presented the veteran president with a game made by Vancouver workers from British Columbia yew cut on the slopes of the North Shore mountain at Dean.

TALENT AVAILABLE

Whether or not Labor organized itself, said Mr. Moore, the present among delegates of members of parliament, members of legislatures, of governments, showed that such men were available in their ranks. As political influences, he pointed out, that not one of the many Labor men on the statutes was there but agitation and pressure from the press. He warned his hearers that they must educate public opinion before pressing for legislation. Labor was not to progress by reviving old and failing to take advantage of own opportunities.

DEATH TOLL FROM ACCIDENTS MOUNTS TO FIVE IN MONTH

F. A. McKenna, Spanish Road, secretary for the Lemon Gossnons Lumber Co., was the driver of the car involved in the accident, according to the police report. He was proceeding north on Quadra Street and the car was heading south. The car was when he felt the impact of the machine against the body of Miss Scott, who, it is believed, was walking in a southerly direction across the intersection.

The driver stopped immediately and, on getting out, discovered the body of the girl. A sharp radiator ornament had apparently pierced her head.

Miss Scott was still breathing when taken to hospital, but died shortly after 10:30 o'clock.

The inquest will be held at Haywards B.C. Courthouse tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. The body will be forwarded to Vancouver for services Wednesday and interment in Ocean View Burial Park.

Miss Scott was housekeeper for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart, 1183 Pembroke Street. She came from Vancouver two and one-half years ago. A brother, Charles Scott, and a niece, Mrs. Thomas Diamond, are in the Terminal City.

CRASH ON HIGHWAY

The mishap on the Island Highway early Sunday morning in which Stanley Fell was injured, was also a narrow escape for two passengers in his car and for Fred J. Saggis Jr., 712 Suffolk Street, driver of the other car, in the collision.

Mr. Fell's car, after the crash, catapulted over an embankment, through a fence and into a ploughed field but fortunately did not turn over.

The collision occurred just south of the six-mile bridge. Mr. Saggis, principal police officer, was traveling north, proceeding to his camp in the country and Mr. Fell was returning with two companions from a dance at Dean.

The cars met almost head-on. Mr. Saggis' car went off the road on one side and Mr. Fell's on the other. Both cars were badly damaged. Mr. Saggis sustained shock and a wound on his arm.

Constable Archie Carmichael of the Provincial Police attended and had Mr. Fell removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where Dr. A. C. Sinclair attended him. He was reported resting easily, his condition being improved this afternoon.

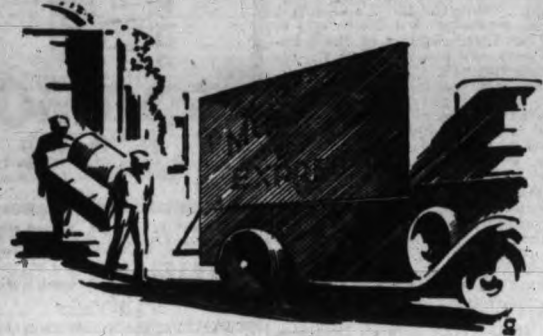

YOUTH THROWN FROM CAR

The other two week-end collisions were of a minor nature. Yesterday afternoon on the East Saanich Road, near the Prairie Inn at Saanichton, a car passing one driven by George

THE GOLD STANDARD GOES

ACCORDING TO J. P. MORGAN, ONE of the world's most prominent bankers, Great Britain's suspension of the gold standard is a "hopeful and not a discouraging event." Other British and United States financiers agree that the government's step is in the right direction and they are sure Britain will weather her crisis. American bankers who discussed the matter with the Associated Press correspondents, but who requested their names be not used, regard the move "as a logical and foregone conclusion," that "it is the correct move," that "it should have been done before," and that "far from being disconcerting, this move has cleared the atmosphere." We are told, too, that "high Wall Street banking circles" applaud the suspension of gold payments as a constructive measure. How New York reacted, moreover, is reflected in the fact that stock prices rallied sharply after the slump which marked the beginning of trading this morning.

There is no disposition either in New York or London, or in any of the European capitals, to minimize the seriousness of the situation as it exists at the moment. Comments of the London press received as this is written are somewhat mixed; yet such newspapers as The Daily Mail, which has always opposed the British adherence to the gold standard, welcomes the government's decision with unstinted enthusiasm, and argues that it will stimulate every trade and industry, and "take a load off the nation's back." The fact that commodity prices are so low, that Britain's stock of wheat is abnormally high, suggests to The Mail that no better moment could have been chosen for the move. Indeed, it looks for a revival in the iron, coal and steel industries, and in many other directions. In any event, even though Britain's exports may not at once increase materially, she will be able to restrict her imports without a tariff, the imposition of which would, after all, add to the cost of raw materials upon which she depends so much for her exportable manufactures.

The Daily Herald contends that Britain's action will compel the French and United States bankers and governments to consider the whole problem of the gold standard, which has not been functioning properly because France and the United States have been hoarding gold. It will be for these countries now to face this situation in the light of events which have taken place during the week-end. The London Telegraph, incidentally, regrets the step, since it always has been a strong supporter of the gold standard, but admits that circumstances have been too strong for the government. At the same time, it points out, even though Great Britain "may have been driven to lower the proud flag of the gold standard . . . it is a moral certainty that Great Britain won't go off the gold standard alone." Meanwhile, on the London metal exchange to-day, copper went up ten dollars a ton, with tin rising by no less than thirty dollars a ton.

What has happened in Britain is that she, as a banker, has stopped a run on her institution. It has been common knowledge, of course, that ever since last July people in all parts of the world have been cashing their British securities in London; hence, these individuals, perhaps without realizing it, actually were taking part in a run on the Bank of England, which, to bolster sterling, was compelled to arrange two large credits with United States and French bankers. These huge sums apparently did not prove sufficient to restore necessary confidence in the country's solvency among foreign holders. The withdrawals continued. In the half day's trading on Saturday, for instance, the losses incurred amounted to, no less than $50,000,000. It was this alarming announcement which brought Premier MacDonald hastily to London from Chequers yesterday afternoon to confer with his colleagues in the Cabinet. The inevitable decision promptly followed and the necessary legislation will be put through all its stages to-day.

It is not easy for the layman to follow the intricacies of international finance. When conditions are normal he scarcely gives it a thought. He leaves it to the experts. But everybody in Great Britain, and, for that matter, people all over the world, have been directly involved by the decision of the British government—at the instigation of Mr. Winston Churchill—in 1926, to restore the gold standard, which was suspended during the war for obvious reasons. To The Vancouver Star, however, an informative article has been contributed by Mr. Thomas Matthews, a resident of Vancouver, who has devoted the greater part of his life to a study of financial and currency problems, and The Times is taking the liberty of quoting from his observations.

Mr. Matthews commences his discourse by ridiculing the oft-repeated argument that the financial condition of the world is purely a psychological problem. He argues that every great financial depression has been brought about by some tampering with the money of the country, which limited, or lessened, its supply. He proceeds:

When England adopted the gold standard in 1819, a disastrous depression set in which lasted up until 1848, when the discoveries of gold in Australia and California caused millions of the precious metal to be poured into Europe, increasing the money volume, which in turn, caused prices of all commodities to advance from 40 to 50 per cent during that period.

Another disastrous depression was brought on in 1873 when France, Italy, Belgium and the United States closed their mints to the free coinage of silver.

The depression of 1893 was largely influenced by the failure of the Brussels Monetary Conference held the previous year, followed later by the repeal of the silver purchase clause of the Sherman Act by the United States Congress.

This depression was relieved by the outpouring of new gold from South Africa and the Klondike district. At the Brussels Monetary Convention, twenty nations were represented and all but two of them, England and Germany, were favorable to the use of both gold and silver as the medium of exchange.

On the question of commodity prices, to the very low price of which The Daily Mail refers, Mr. Matthews quotes Hume in his essay on money: "Long periods of dwindling prices have invariably been periods of national distress. The terrible fall in prices which succeeded the resumption of specie payments in gold in England after the French war, and which went on with little interruption from 1823 to 1848, was the direst period of modern English history." Mr. Matthews recalls the economic conference at Geneva in 1922, when resolutions were passed suggesting that all countries should return to the gold standard as soon as possible, and that the powers should co-ordinate the demand for gold which should be needed as a cover for their currencies. Then we read further:

The international bankers, including the Bank of England, were evidently not satisfied that a simple resolution urging all countries to return to the gold standard was sufficient, because we find that in the year 1926, the Cunliffe committee in Britain, composed of ten British bankers and two British business men, recommended the British government to return at once to the gold standard, which was suspended during the period of the war.

The ten British bankers favored this move, but the two British business men were strongly opposed. Again in the same year, the Hilton-Young Committee was sent from England to India to advise the Indian government to adopt a gold bullion standard. This recommendation was put into effect in India in 1929 and during the years 1929 and 1930, $5,000,000 ounces of silver were dumped on the market by the Indian government.

Immediately, the price of silver started to fall, and practically every other primary commodity in the world, wherever gold is the standard, followed suit.

It is inexplicable to Mr. Matthews that any body of men should attempt to limit the money of the commercial world to one metal—gold—at a time when the annual output is dwindling; while the population and commerce of the world are increasing at a greater rate than ever before. As now is patent to everybody, therefore, the British government, driven to its present position by the force of events, is compelled to recognize that there is only so much gold in the world, and that most of it is tucked away in the vaults of Paris and Washington, that she has parted with all she can afford without wrecking her whole financial structure. Surely the case in support of an international conference to deal with the problem of gold and silver, as well as kindred problems, never was more clear than it is now. A financial crisis involves the whole world. Meanwhile, however, Britain is recognizing that she is "up against it" for the time being. That, in the opinion of financial experts, is one of the most hopeful signs, because she will attack her problem from that standpoint.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

COST OF LIVING IN JAIL
The Mount Forest Confederates

The cost of living at the county jail at Stratford has taken another tumble, according to a report submitted by Governor A. T. Tretheway, for the second quarter ending June 30. For the past three months the average cost of each prisoner's daily rations has been 10.81 cents. There were forty-three prisoners committed during the period. The population of our prisons has increased very greatly during the past few years, but this has not been on account of the decrease in the cost of living. The combination of liquor and unemployment has been the leading factor in crime increase.

IS IT COMING DOWN?
The Regina Leader

It is indicated at Washington that President Hoover is considering recommending to Congress a change in fiscal and taxation policy. There is a serious falling off in national revenues and, like Britain, the neighboring republic will be faced with a huge deficit. It may be too much to expect that Mr. Hoover is contemplating a substantial reduction in customs duties, and yet it is possible that this is what he has in mind. Were he to do so the news might invite a much wider, widespread, approbation as his recent proposal for a year's moratorium in war debt payments. Many would like to see the United States give a definite and substantial lead in the scaling down of tariff walls, with a view to accelerating freedom of trade throughout the world. Economists point to high tariffs as obstacles to world trade.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?
The New Orleans Times-Picayune

On and after September 1 it will cost the correspondent five cents postage in letters, up to one ounce weight, mailed to Great Britain or to Ireland. We wonder whether it was worth our government's while to boost the rate when the best that is anticipated from the change, in the way of added revenue, will be $500,000 a year. Our post office department explains that a shrinkage in the volume of mail matter carried has rendered the postage increase necessary. We are by no means sure that even the small sum the post office expects to gain by its nickel letters to the British Isles will materialize in practice. But even if it does we doubt the wisdom of the change, as a matter of international policy.

APPLE SHIPPING
The Seattle Times

Which city is to handle the shipment to Europe, from this time on, of Washington's huge apple crop—New York or Seattle? According to The Wenatchee World, the battle is on, with Seattle in the more favorable position just now, but with New York determined to get the business away from this city.

The apple industry, according to The World, is out to get lower rates from both ports. New York's shipping authorities, in starting a determined campaign to take the boxed-apple handling away from Seattle, points out its time advantage; apples shipped across the continent by rail and transferred to ships on the Atlantic seaboard will get to Europe somewhat sooner than if sent all the way by water from Seattle through the Panama Canal.

On the other hand, after the first shipments have gone by rail to supply the early European market, there is no need of haste; the schedules are arranged, in fact, so that the apples arrive at properly-spaced intervals to keep the market supplied through the whole season. That is where Seattle has all the advantage, if the rate through here can be made low enough. But it will be well for the Seattle Port Commission and the steamship lines to remember that the apple growers have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for lower rail rates east. The business is here now, and it is worth keeping.

A THOUGHT

But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you.—Matthew 5:44.

Loose Ends

In praise of this season—and of onions, potatoes and pickles—of Mr. Gandhi and goat's milk—of and wisdom in our police court.

By H. B. W.

THIS, I AM prepared to argue and prove, if necessary, is the best time of the year. Most likely when this contention printed the weather will have broken and I shall be prepared to argue and prove that it is the worst time of the year. But, meanwhile, at this moment, it is the ultimate perfection of the seasons out our way, and while this may not interest you at all, it is intensely important to us. It is not merely the condition of the weather, the blue skies and fluffy clouds, the haze over the hills, and that soft, caressing feel in the air which our ancestors have praised in their songs for hundreds of years. There is an active, vital pleasure in this season for us who live in the country which you effete city dwellers do not understand. To you this is merely fine September weather, with a dash of chill in the mornings and evenings, good days for golf in the afternoon and a grate fire in the evening. But, for us out in these rustic wilds it is the end of the growing season, when the finishing touches are put on the year's work, the season of preparation for the grim winter. And these last days are all the more precious because they will be so few. So we treasure them as we treasure no other days in the year.

THERE IS much to be done before the winter sweeps down on us, and, according to Bill Potts, our private wood man and weather prophet, it will be a fierce winter indeed—a prediction based on the large quantities of berries on our holly bushes and the large quantities of unsold wood in Mr. Potts's yard. There are the onions to be gathered in and hung in long strings in the root cellar, not because they are any better that than in boxes, but because that is the good old-fashioned way of doing them, and it seems nice somehow. We are gathering in the apples, too, and as some of the smaller ones fall to the ground the little girl from next door runs off with them. Later we discover them hidden away in her doll's house for, she says, her dollies will need them awfully badly when the cold, cold winter comes. Apparently they will live entirely on apples during the entire winter, poor things.

THEN THERE are the apple trees to be sprayed against the canker, which is the bane of this countryside, and George Pudbury watches us over his fence with a solemn look. "I don't hold with these scientific ideas, not me," says Mr. Pudbury. "Let nature do it, says I. It's flyin' in the face of Providence to go 'round a-spraying chemicals on the trees. An' I knowed a man once, back in England it was, who ate an apple off a tree what was sprayed in the fall an' he died that night, Yea, he died. The doctor said it was heart failure but us who knowed him knowed right well it was them apples which had been sprayed. You don't catch me takin' chances like that. I wouldn't eat of your apples, not if you was to give 'em to me." However, if we make no such offer, there is no chance to prove or disprove Mr. Pudbury's sincerity.

THERE IS no use trying to describe to you either, unless you have felt it, the comfortable feeling to be derived only from the spectacle of your bin well filled with potatoes, and more the knowledge that more are pitted out under the great fir tree; the sight of row of row of raspberries, blackberries, plums and peaches glistening in shiny glass bottles. As you stand in your root cellar and gaze at the strings of onions, the shelves of yellow pumpkins and green squashes and the jars of luscious pickles—then you feel that, come what may, even if civilization itself should collapse before spring, there will still be plenty to keep you going. And there is a sense of satisfaction, not merely gross and physical but of the spirit and the mind—an inward feeling that all those days of spring and summer, when you labored in your garden under a glaring sun while others played golf or went to the beach, were not in vain. This is your harvest, your year's work, your little contribution to the maintenance of the race. In these days of machinery, when most people cannot see that they are contributing anything, you feel that, just once a year, to feel that you have a right to be alive.

IT IS ALL very well to smile at Mr. GANDHI's behavior at the London conference, but there is a lot that our own statesmen could learn from this remarkable man. I am not urging our statesmen to go about in loin clothes and shawls for, built on a large scale, they are not made for such displays, and goat's milk is not sufficient to sustain what more ample avoirdupois which seems to be the mark of greatness in the politics of the western world. What I mean is that it would be interesting, and I think, an important experiment, if some of our statesmen out in these wilds were to follow Mr. Gandhi's method of just doing what they think is best and not worrying about the results.

I HAVE NOT yet heard of a government in a civilized country attempting such a programme so far, but mark you, this is no sign that western statescraft lacks sincerity. On the contrary, western statesmen are so certain of the rectitude of their own parties, of their own governments and of themselves that they are patriotically ready to sacrifice almost anything to keep themselves in office. They are willing to endure prolonged miseries, to keep the market supplied through the whole season. That is where Seattle has all the advantage, if the rate through here can be made low enough. But it will be well for the Seattle Port Commission and the steamship lines to remember that the apple growers have asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for lower rail rates east. The business is here now, and it is worth keeping.

follow the Gandhi plan, to announce a policy and, if the public did not like it, simply go home and live on goat's milk. How much more comfortable for statesmen to follow their principles and stay home than following the patriotic road of compromise, expediency and expediency, and, as a result, suffering all the agonies of office at a time like this. But even that would not save them permanently. After a while the public would become so accustomed to principles in politics that in the end it would probably vote for them and elect a government prepared to carry them out. This would be serious.

MAGISTRATE JAY is quoted in this newspaper as suspecting that reckless driving in Victoria is a sign of public insanity. No doubt it is. But if it is the only sign of public insanity which our able magistrate discerns in these times he must be a happy man. He must have far more confidence in the public than I have. Reckless driving, indeed, is one of the minor and least important signs of public insanity. If Mr. Jay will look abroad for a moment and behold a world which has abundant wealth and the means of producing infinitely more overnight and which is still in poverty and financial desperation; if he will observe the most modern and most powerful nation spending 70 per cent of its revenue on war while millions of its citizens do not know where their dinners are coming from; if Mr. Jay will regard our own country where, two years ago, we were seeking desperately for population and where, at this very time, the government of British Columbia finds it necessary to urge the repatriation of unemployed aliens because we have been too stupid in our management of Canada to find work for them—if Mr. Jay will just look around a bit he will find I am sure, that reckless driving is the least important sign of public insanity these days.

IT IS QUITE probable, that the reckless driver is insane, but reckless driving is a minor offshoot of the general insanity of the entire human race. I am even prepared to assert, indeed, that there is no sanity left, except on our police court benches and in this column; and as I also have been fined in a police court, not for reckless driving but for driving too fast past a school, I am not quite sure about the sanity of police court benches either, and I am a little doubtful even about this column.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
Monday, Sept. 21, 1906
(From The Times Files)

There was a meeting of the directors of the Royal Jubilee Hospital last evening with the president, James Forman, in the chair. There were also present: Directors Alex. Wilson, C. A. Holland, E. A. Lewis, H. Dallas Helmcken, J. W. Bolden, Chris Spencer and Secretary Elworthy.

The by-law providing for the borrowing of $200,000 to improve the waterworks system is now ready for submission to the property owners for their verdict. The bill will be submitted on October 4, with W. W. Northcott as returning officer.

With the rise of the tide to its high level yesterday afternoon, three large steamers tugged on the steamer City of Seattle to free her from her grip on the rocks of Trial Island and failed to move her. The effort will be repeated this afternoon and, with three hundred tons of her cargo removed, it is hoped that the work will be successful.

Weather Forecast, Victoria and vicinity—Light or moderate winds, generally fair and cool.

J. A. MacDonald, M.P.P. of Roseland, arrived in the city last evening and is registered at the Drury Hotel.

With the customary dance in the Exhibition Hall last evening, which was attended by many from the city as well as from the district, the thirty-ninth annual exhibition of the North and South Sanction Agricultural Association was brought to a happy conclusion last evening.

PEACHES

To the Editor:—There are a few more alternatives offered us. We might copy the methods by which 35-cent peaches are available in Port Angeles, as we have done in the matter of other produce, or we may console ourselves that "if we are being exploited, we are being exploited by Canadians and not by foreigners." The real point, however, is, what we shall do, and that will be, merely to pull our belts in another notch, thus rendering ourselves still more inarticulate and like

DISCRIMINATION

To the Editor:—In Friday's Times there is a letter signed "Fair Play" stating that carpenters on relief work are being paid only $2.50 per day, whilst others are receiving the union rate, $7. If such is the case the former are being treated unfairly, whilst the latter are plainly members of a foreign union and are being favored by the federal minister of Labor who himself carries a union card in this foreign union. Instructions from Ottawa plainly stated some weeks ago that tradesmen on public buildings (carpenters, plumbers, painters, etc.), should be paid 40 cents an hour, or $3.20 per day. If, as "Fair Play" says, there are some favorites of the minister of Labor who are being permitted to draw more than twice this sum, their fellow tradesmen are being robbed; the taxpayers (many of whom are not members of a union) are being robbed; and the relief coffers will be empty just that much sooner. It is amazing that any government official, for the sake of a few votes, and in a world-wide crisis like the present, can still play the dreary round of favoritism.

Colquhain, B.C. WALTER FOSTER.

CYCLISTS ALSO

To the Editor:—It is pleasing to note that the police in their intensive campaign against reckless drivers also include cyclists who fail to adhere to the rules of the road. Yet cyclists have been immune from prosecution in hard to understand. They seem to think they can do anything they like on our public thoroughfares, describing circles and figures of eight in the middle of the road, riding on the sidewalks and on the wing side of the road and going without lights at night. Chief Healey says "cyclists must have reflectors." Reflectors are of no use whatever and cyclists should be compelled to have lights both "front and aft." A cyclist on the main country road is hard to discern, and when it is necessary to dim one's lights the reflectors do not show up at all. Having in mind that a bicycle is a moving object on the road, cyclists should be compelled to conform to the rules of the road in the same way as a motorist, and furthermore should be compelled to carry a small license plate so that any infraction of the law governing the rule of the road can be reported to the police in the same manner as a person reports a motorist who drives to the danger of all.

BOWLERS SHOW FINE FORM IN CRICKET GAMES

Wanderers Down the Incoogs While Five C's Defeat Albions; Scoring Low

Bowlers controlled batting in Saturday's cricket matches, keeping scores low and furnishing upsets by retiring heavy hitters with few runs.

As a result Wanderers overcame the Incoogs with a margin of thirty-nine runs and the University School grounds. At Beacon Hill Five C's defeated the Albions by fifteen runs. Atwell showed up well for the Five C's in the other fixture, tipping his pair of balls for nine runs in 10.7 overs. Hanson and Billings were in form for the losing Albion eleven.

Slater of the Wanderers turned in the best score of the day, making fifty-one runs before he was run out. Scores follow:

Courtenay, Sept. 21.—The annual banquet of the Comox Valley Twilight Baseball League was held in the dining-room of the Native Sons' Hall on Friday evening, in honor of the league champions, the Courtenay Bushes.

A chicken dinner was served by the Canadian Daughters' League. "Pat" Murray, president of the Twilight League, presented the Feden Cup to Dick Demonte, manager of the champion team, and also medals to the individual members.

Toasts were proposed to the winning team, the Twilight League, and the cities of Courtenay and Cumberland, which were respectively responded to by Messrs. Dick Demonte, Bill Rickson, W. A. W. Hames and Wm. McLehlan. Team managers and members responded briefly.

Instrumental music was provided by V. Tomasi, accordion, and Harvey Copman, piano. Songs were given by W. A. W. Hames, Mr. Husband and W. McLehlan. During the presentation of the medals a minute's silence was observed in memory of Freddie Stephens, who was killed in the game here on Dominion Day, and who was a popular member of the champion team.

The cup for the most hits made by a member of any team was presented to C. McNeil of the Courtenay team, with twenty-one hits.

HONOR FORMER SCHOOL HEAD

W. H. Gee Receives Presentation From P.T.A. of Margaret Jenkins

As a token of their appreciation of his fourteen years' service as principal of the school, members of the Margaret Jenkins Parent-Teacher Association on Friday presented a gold-mounted walking stick to W. H. Gee, recently retired head master.

Unable to attend the school commencement exercises, the popular ex-principal received the presentation at his home, where a delegation of the Parent-Teacher Association visited him and his wife. Major J. W. Clark, first president of the P.T.A., made the presentation. Mrs. Frank Baylis presented a beautiful floral bouquet to Mrs. Gee with the organization's good wishes.

At the commencement exercises, members of the staff, through the new principal, E. Butterworth, presented John Dee, former vice-principal, with a fine cigarette case.

VINS PRIZE

At the ceremony, students who passed into high school were given their certificates as were members of the first aid squad who were successful in their examinations.

The Margaret Jenkins award for the highest ranking student passing into high school was presented to R. Armond Marston.

Henry Paul Smith received the Canadian Club prize from Mrs. Edwin Brown and Mrs. A. Carmichael.

RECALLS BREAK OF LLOYD GEORGE WITH NORTHCLIFFE

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times London.—The scene when Lloyd George told Lord Northcliffe "to go to —" is vividly portrayed in Tom Clarke's newly published book, "My Northcliffe Diary."

Mr. Clarke, now editor of The News-Chronicle, was one of Northcliffe's bright young men, and served on The Daily Mail for twelve years up to the time of his chief's death in 1922.

Of the quarrel between Lord Northcliffe and Lloyd George, Mr. Clarke writes: "Never did I get Northcliffe's version of the quarrel, but Mr. Lloyd George has since told me: 'When Northcliffe asked me to put him on the Peace Delegation, I told him to go to —. I broke with Northcliffe. I refused absolutely to have him at the Peace Conference. I put up with him for four years. The break had come—when he wanted to dictate to me. As Prime Minister I could not have it. Northcliffe thought he could run the country. I could not allow that. It was a good thing for me that I did not get turned out while he was alive, for he would have claimed that he had done it. Northcliffe was a great man, but he could not be allowed to dominate the Prime Minister.'"

Mr. Clarke considers that his exclusion from the Peace Conference was the big disappointment of Northcliffe's life and it disillusioned him as to his power against that of politicians.

AGAINST SOLDIERS GOING
Lord Northcliffe was at first strongly opposed to sending troops to France. "Not a single soldier shall leave this country," he said on August 5, 1914. "We have a superb fleet, which shall give all the assistance in its power, but I will not support the sending out of this country of a single British soldier. . . . Not a single soldier will go with my consent."

Mr. Clarke's diary contains some touching entries during the days when Lord Northcliffe lay dying in his house in Carlton Gardens. His lordship lingered in a little wooden hut erected on the roof of his house for air and isolation. On August 14, 1922, he died.

Air Episodes Of War Told In R.F.C. History

Reuter's Special to Victoria Times London.—When the attacks on London, in the autumn of 1915, revealed the complete ineffectiveness of the defence, Lord Kitchener sent for Sir David Henderson.

"What are you going to do about these airship raids?" he asked, to which the Director-General of Military Aeronautics replied that the responsibility rested with the Royal Naval Air Service.

"I do not care who has the responsibility," Lord Kitchener retorted. "If there are any more Zeppelin raids and the Royal Flying Corps do not interfere with them, I shall hold you responsible."

This characteristic story of Lord Kitchener is related for the first time in the third volume of "The War in the Air," by E. A. Jones, which is the official history of the R.A.F.

The book, which is more fascinating than any war novel, comes as a refreshing change after the spate of imaginative war literature with which the country has been deluged during the past two or three years, for it conveys no hint of propaganda, no suggestion of political or social bias, confining itself to a plain, unvarnished account of events as they occurred, and in doing so helping to

Is One-Half Your Income Insured? » » »

YOU wouldn't care to live on less than one-half your present earnings, would you? Neither would you want your family to struggle along, alone, on any smaller amount.

That is why it is wise for you to insure that at least one-half of your income will continue. You can do it easily and economically by investing only a few dollars in Life Insurance.

For example, if your earnings are $44 a week—you should own Life Insurance sufficient to yield a weekly return of at least one-half that amount.

That would mean protection for your wife and family—or, if you live, provision for your own old age.

Consult any Life Insurance representative and he will advise you how you can insure one-half your income. You will find the outlay is very small compared to what it offers in peace of mind and security against the future.

YOU NEED NOT STARVE TO BE SLIM

There's no need to starve in order to be slim, no need to tie yourself out with undue exercise.
If you want to be slim and keep fit at the same time, have Ryvita instead of ordinary bread. Ryvita, crisp, crunchy Ryvita, is just the perfect bread in a perfect form, with all the nourishment of the whole rye grain, all its vitamins, its salts of lime, iron and phosphorus, but none of the moisture and half-rat starch which make other breads so fattening. It contains all the "roughage" which Nature intended to stimulate the processes of digestion and elimination.
And this way to be slim is a pleasant way, for Ryvita is delicious in any way you have taken ordinary bread. Plain with butter, with marmalade or jam, it is excellent, while there never was anything better with cheese.
Yet you can eat Ryvita as heartily as you like without getting fat. Start the Ryvita habit at once, but weigh yourself before you start, and see how it helps you to get slim and keep slim.
Try Ryvita to-day. Any grocer can supply you in large cartons at 50¢ (40-50 slices), or smaller cartons at 25¢.

POPULAR GIRL PRETTY BRIDE

Miss Nancie Johnston Married to Ronald K. Gervin of Vancouver

Autumn flowers and foliage formed a pretty setting in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening for the wedding of Nancie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Johnston, 1228 Juno Street, and Mr. Ronald Kenneth Gervin, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gervin, of Billings Bridge, Ottawa. Rev. G. F. Cox performed the ceremony. The floral decorations were the handwork of girl friends of the bride.

HEATHER FROM SCOTLAND
Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked charming in her wedding gown of ivory satin, cut with a slim bodice and a long flared skirt, her veil of embroidered net being confined to her head with a wreath of orange blossoms. One and formed a soft cape across her shoulders, and the other fell in a long full train. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, tuberose, bouvardia and white heather, the heather being sent specially for the happy occasion from the bride's birthplace in Scotland.
The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Johnston, in a pretty frock of pink seersucker, with a blue sash and a cream Juliet cap, and Mrs. Beth Stewart, in a frock of mauve net and a gold lace Juliet cap. They both held bouquets of chrysanthemums in pink and cream, and brambles, respectively. Mr. William Gauld supported the groom, and the ushers were Mr. Jim Lawton and Mr. Ken Findler.

During the signing of the register Miss Joy Duncan sang very sweetly, "All Joy Be Thine."

RECEPTION HELD

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the New Thought Hall, Fort Street, which had been attractively arranged with flowers for the event. Mrs. Johnston, in an ensemble of light navy blue nylon and hat and en suite, assisted the young couple in receiving their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jayson of Vancouver, aunt of the bride, cut the handsome wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Gervin left at midnight on their wedding trip, and on their return will make their home in Vancouver. For traveling, the bride wore a costume of rose silk travel tweed, a navy blue coat and hat and other accessories.
The bride, who had been a popular member of the B.C. Telephone staff for a number of years, was the recipient of several beautiful presentations from her associates in the firm. The operators gave her a silver tea service and tray, the members of the long distance branch, a silver cake plate, and the plant department, a carving set and entree dish.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Gives Jam To Children's Aid

The regent, Mrs. T. R. Myers, presided over a well-attended meeting of the I.O.D.E. Chapter, held at the home of Mrs. K. Chadwick, Chestnut Avenue. Donations were voted towards three projects: The Sorority Memorial School at Poona, India; the N.W.M.P. Memorial Institute, and the Stewart Endowment Fund.
A substantial amount of jam was brought by the members to assist the Children's Aid Home. Mrs. Myers gave a very interesting account of her visit to Harbor Hospital and stressed the urgent necessity for the chapter's continued assistance. Mrs. Myers consented to act as the chapter's delegate to the annual conference at Duncan, October 14.
It was decided to hold a bridge party at Spencer's on Friday, October 2, at 8 o'clock. Those who have reservations are requested to telephone the convener, Mrs. T. Myers, G 4646.

Authors Honor Mainland Poet

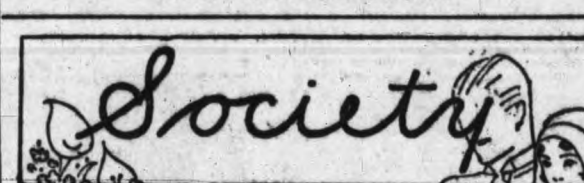

Mr. and Mrs. William Dalton of Vancouver, the latter a native Charlotte Dalton, whose poems are well known by a host of admirers, were the guests of the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association at a meeting of writers in the S.P.O.A. rooms, Campbell Buildings, on Saturday evening.
Wharton, convener of the group, was in the chair and introduced the speakers. Donald A. Fraser read from The Canadian Bookman of some years ago an appreciation and analysis of the poems of Mrs. Dalton, written by Miss A. Ermattinger Fraser. Mr. Dalton followed with a great variety of beautiful extracts from her several volumes, many of which are now out of print. Mr. Dalton told in a charmingly informal way of the early life of the poet and of her success and achievements in England as a young girl; he spoke of their love for their adopted land, Canada, to which they had come twenty-seven years ago. Returning from the national convention of Canadian Authors' Association at Toronto this year, Mr. and Mrs. Dalton, to find the thirteen-year-old girl author of a beautiful poem on Charles and Mary Lamb, which Mrs. Dalton quoted in her paper on "The Future of Our Poetry" read at the convention. Among other speakers were Mrs. Muriel C. Wankamaker of Seattle, who as organizer of the League of Western Writers has been a frequent and very helpful visitor to the writers of Victoria. Mrs. Jamieson, "Edna Jaques," also recited one of her poems, "Ships." Mrs. Ebbes-Cavanagh on behalf of the Victoria and Islands Branch, thanked Mr. and Mrs. Dalton and the other speakers for the pleasure of the evening's entertainment.

Knox Congregational Social—The Knox Presbyterian Church held a very successful congregational social Friday evening, the C.G.L.T. group being responsible for the enjoyable program, which included games and music. L. Partridge, bell at the piano. Refreshments were served.

PROHIBITION IS LIKELY TO COME

Says Mrs. Nellie McClung; Plan Memorial to Late W.C.T.U. Officer

Regina, Sask., Sept. 21.—"Temperance workers, being well convinced that we are promoting a fine and splendid principle, are hopeful of having our cause prevail sooner or later." In these words Mrs. Nellie L. McClung Saturday replied to a question about the prospects ahead of those whose concern is for prohibition. Mrs. McClung has found time in her busy life for lending a hand whenever the W.C.T.U., or other temperance organizations have appealed to her.

"I believe in the self-imposed control," declared Mrs. McClung, "which will come from the scientific temperance teaching in the schools. This is the best method to pursue just now."

"In these times no effort should be spared to influence the imagination of youth, favorably towards whatever means future greatness for the Dominion and happiness for its homes."

"All who knew the late Mrs. L. C. McKinney of Clareholm, Alta., who, at the time of her death a few months ago, was the world vice-president of the W.C.T.U., will feel interested in a memorial we are planning," said the visitor.

"It will be presented to the Legislative Assembly of Alberta, and will hang in the Legislature building at Edmonton. Mrs. McKinney was the first woman to be elected to a legislature in any part of the British Empire. The portrait will be finished about October 15."

She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, barbadia and white heather. Mr. Charles Dodson attended the groom. A small reception followed the service at the home of the groom's parents, where the decorations were carried out in white and pink, the bride's cake having the place of honor on the supper table. Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon left later for Vancouver en route for a motoring tour in the States, the bride traveling in a black velvet frock and Empress Engineer hat, and a short fur coat. They will make their home in Victoria. Mrs. E. Cockman of California was an out-of-town guest at the wedding.

JAPANESE GIFT TO FLIERS

of how valuable this rest period is to him, he is certain to relax. Relaxation in itself prods the appetite.

During the winter season it grows dark very early, so there is little rest for the children to stay out after 4:30 o'clock. There is time for a quiet game, for reading, for some bedtime stories and for the daily bath. The last half-hour before dinner time is a most convenient hour for the latter ceremony. A warm bath takes the kinks out of wrinkled dispositions and evens out what is often the ugliest and most irritable period of the child's day.

DINNER FOR RUNABOUT

If the child is under five years, he will profit by eating his meals before the grown-ups. At his small table in the warm kitchen he will have sufficient of his mother's attention without any chance of demanding undesirable foods and getting them for the sake of peace. He can play quietly while the adults eat and then slip off to bed. Mothers who have given this system a trial are unanimously enthusiastic. Parents deserve one meal in comfort.

There are, of course, other reasons which may cause a poor appetite. Our latest called, "Physical and Psychological Reasons For Appetitelessness" is available to any reader who sends

WOMAN'S ROLE ABLY DEFINED

Mrs. H. T. J. Coleman Makes Clever Response to Premier's Toast at Banquet

"Mrs. So-and-so responded to the toast to the ladies." With this terse sentence is usually dismissed the woman's part in any report of the programme at a dinner sponsored by the sterner sex. But at the annual banquet of the North Saanich Service Club held on Saturday evening, Mrs. H. T. J. Coleman, wife of the well-known member of the faculty of the University of British Columbia, made such a clever response to the eulogy of her sex by Premier Talmie, that it is reproduced in full below.

ORIGIN OF TOAST

"I am sure we women are all grateful to His Honor the Premier for the gracious words which he has spoken about us and I only wish that in reply to the toast I might express with equal effectiveness the sentiments which are suitable to the occasion. The toast to the ladies, as we all know, was originally a toast to a particular lady whose name was proposed by some admirer who had reason to believe that she looked on him with favor and who was apt to insist that all others should regard her charms with the same enthusiasm as that which moved him. With the passing of the years the toast has changed and on festive occasions men drink to womanhood as a whole—though, of course, it is still possible for them to have one particular woman in mind as they honor the toast.

THIS NEW FREEDOM

"The change in the nature of the toast may be due to the fact that woman's place in society has changed through the years. She has achieved in large measure what is called her freedom and the problem is now 'what will she do with it?' There are some unkind persons who insist that woman at present wishes to keep all the privileges which the chivalry of a former period granted and to grasp all those other privileges which modern ideas of equality and social justice would deny to her. No doubt woman has her full share of native human selfishness, but I, for one, prefer to believe that she feels more honored in being regarded as man's helper than as man's competitor. The whole history of her sex points in that direction. Woman has found her joy in ministry, to her husband, her children, the helpless and afflicted, rather than in selfish ease or glory.

NEW RESPONSIBILITIES

"Within less than fifty years there has come upon woman many new responsibilities. Man has learned to bear these through many centuries of bitter and painful struggle. It is too much to expect that woman should bear them all easily and gracefully. She needs sympathy and encouragement and in return for these she will give, I believe, not only intelligence, but the devoted loyalty which has been the mark of her behaviour since human life has appeared upon this planet.

"I think her influence will be particularly helpful in recalling to the mind of the world the fact that spiritual unity and co-operation are more important than conventions and formal arrangements. If the world cannot be made better by an increase of legislation, perhaps it can be made better by an increase of good will.

SEX NO BARRIER

"A sufficient illustration, for the present occasion, of what I mean is found in the organization under whose auspices we are met. There is about its workings, I am sure, a minimum of formality. There is no assumption that rulership belongs to man because he is man with a certain tradition of rulership behind him; or that service belongs to woman because of a certain tradition of feminine inferiority. There is a frank recognition of gifts and a frank acknowledgment of obligations in which sex is ignored simply because in such high issues sex does not enter. And I say this in spite of the fact that everywhere about us to-night—in the food and in the appointments—is what we call 'the feminine touch.' For in that happy age which the most hopeful of the race have always looked forward to, the self-respecting equality of man and woman will mean equality of worth rather than identity of gifts and identity of service."

REST PERIODS CAN DO WONDERS FOR POOR APPETITE

There are, as we know, numerous reasons for a child's inability to enjoy his food: illness, too much adult attention, a diet over abundant with rich foods, eating between meals, anemia, etc. But one of the frequent reasons is often unrecognized or ignored—fatigue. That fatigue robs one of an appetite is an observable fact. "I'm too tired to eat" is a commonplace excuse. Adults know their own symptoms. A child does not. The mother may admit that the child runs all day like a wild man, never quiet, always on the go. Because of that she is unable to understand why he is not ravenously hungry. "He ought to be," she remarks. "He is active enough."

NEEDED: RELAXATION

Many children are chronically tired. They come to the table, face its bounties, and are nauseated. They eat a few bites and are ready to be up and off again. One of the best bits of advice for the mother of such a child is that she give him an opportunity for more rest. Mothers know that just to bring a child in from play and say, "Now, you need more rest, so go to bed," is wasted energy. The child does not want to go to bed, however badly he needs the rest. He would rather play. But rest periods may be managed tactfully. The child may be called in the house fifteen minutes or one-half hour before lunch and dinner. He may wash himself and then sit down and read, or play at some quiet game until the meal is on the table. Without even a suggestion

How to Remove Blackheads In a Single Treatment

Edna Wallace Hopper, "The One Woman in the World Who Never Grew Old," discloses another of her startling youth revelations

SO many young women have asked me how to get rid of blackheads and reduce large pores.

My answer is, "Purge the pores." Use a laxative on your skin just as you would use a laxative on your system.

I know most of you didn't know you could do this. That you're surprised such a thing can be done. But it can. And very simply and quickly. Often in a single treatment.

What you use to do it is White Youth Pack. A preparation I found out about years ago in Paris.

I never let a week go by without using it myself. Once every week I purge my pores. I wish you could look at my skin and see the result. There's not a line, not a blemish on my face. My skin's as young, as fresh as it was when I was 16.

I brought the formula of White Youth Pack back from Paris. I had my name put on it so you'd know you were getting the same thing I use. It is called Edna Wallace Hopper's White Youth Pack or Clay. The one made from the original French formula. That does away with blackheads and large pores in a single treatment.

You can get it at any toilet counter. The whole treatment takes only a few minutes' time. Full directions come with every tube.

"Lefty" Grove Chosen Most Valuable Player in Major Baseball

"Chuck" Klein, Philadelphia, Receives Honor in National League

Fred Perry and Ellsworth Vines Sensations of Tennis Season

Ideal Temperament Has Played Big Part in Success of Vines

THE MOST VALUABLE player in the two major baseball leagues is Lefty Grove, Southpaw pitcher, star of the Philadelphia Athletics, which naturally left him as the most valuable player in the American League. The most valuable player in the National League is Chuck Klein, of the Philadelphia Nationals. Such was the decision of a committee composed of fourteen members of the Baseball Writers' Association. It was the first time since the practice of naming most valuable players was begun about ten years ago, that a left-handed pitcher was the supreme choice. Grove is the third pitcher ever to be named the most valuable player in his league. Walter Johnson and Dizzy Vance having been the choices in their respective leagues in 1924. The vote of the writers for the supreme choice was: Grove, eight; Mickey Cochrane, three; Al Simmons, two; Lou Gehrig, two. Not a National League player received a single vote.

The board was also asked to name the most valuable player in each of the leagues. Grove, of course, was the American League choice. The National League vote was divided among seven men. Chuck Klein, of the Philadelphia Athletics, was chosen by four votes, closely followed by Frank Frisch, with three. The rest of the vote was divided among Hazen Cuyler, Bill Terry, Ed. Brandt and Pie Traynor.

At the hour of selection Grove had won twenty-eight games for the champion Athletics and lost three. Since that time he has added two more victories to his credit. Grove has now taken his place in baseball's hall of fame along with Mathewson, Alexander and Johnson.

The big glass worker from Lonsdale, Md., who never had a regulation baseball in his hands until he was nineteen years old, for a time this season threatened Babe Marquard's consecutive victory string of nineteen straight. St. Louis' pitcher after he had knocked off sixteen in a row. He lost a pitcher's battle with Dick Coffman of the Browns, by a score of 1 to 0.

Grove lost the second game he pitched this season, the Senators beating him 2 to 1. In the other loss he sustained this year, he was as resilient pitcher against Chicago's White Sox in a late inning and Lew Fosse hit a home run that won for the Sox.

When Grove came to the Athletics in 1925, after five seasons with Baltimore, he was as well as a March hare. He gave 131 bases on balls that year in 191 innings pitched. Gradually he began to master control. Last year he was awarded 60 free bases out of 291 innings pitched.

Up to this year he had won 115 games and lost 37. Last year he won twenty-eight and lost five.

Chuck Klein, chosen most valuable player in the National League, is doing his fourth season on behalf of the Phillies. They got the young Indianapolis steel-worker from Port Wayne for $7,500. The other day he put a price tag of $150,000 on the man after William Wrigley had made some overtures to the Phillie management.

Five years ago he was a $250 ball player in the Central League. This is the sum Port Wayne is said to have paid Evansville for his services.

Playing in the Philadelphia outfield, he has a big left hand, batting average for his first three years of 263. This year he has been hitting between 340 and 350.

Locals Capture Prized Trophy for Sixth Time in Seven Years of Competition; Cpl. B. W. Beaumont of Visitors Breaks Three Range Record With Brilliant Score of 148; Sgt. J. H. Regan and Q.M.S. A. E. Evans Lead Victoria Team With 145 Totals

By the margin of eleven points Victoria rifleman retained possession of the handsome Butchart Shield in the annual team competition against Vancouver marksmen at Heals Range yesterday. The local shots piled up a total of 1,135, as compared with the visitors' 1,124. Victoria has won the shield six out of the seven times it has been competed for.

Victoria won the shield two years ago at Vancouver and retained it last year when the event was called off and now the trophy will remain in the Capital City for another twelve months.

BASKETBALL CONSTITUTION IS REVISED

Senior B. Champions Will Have Right to Challenge for Canadian Play-offs

Jack Taylor, Victoria, Elected Vice-president of Provincial Association

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—Provincial senior B. basketball winners will have the privilege of challenging the senior A. champions for the right to continue in Canadian play-offs next season, following a decision reached at the annual meeting of the B.C. Basketball Association in The Province building Saturday. The above clause was one of several features of the new constitution which was approved at Saturday's gathering. The junior players' age limit was reduced from under sixteen to under fifteen and notice of motion was given, to be considered next year, altering the intermediate A. age limit from under twenty-one to under twenty. A proposal to form separate associations to govern men's and women's basketball was turned down. The suggestion of Dr. J. A. Gillespie, that provincial and Dominion play-offs be staged on a two-out-of-three basis instead of two games, total points, was approved.

Home clubs in provincial playoffs may retain 25 per cent of the gross gates from which to pay expenses, the remainder being set aside for the visiting teams, according to the new constitution.

FINANCES GOOD.—The financial statement given by Secretary W. H. W. Hardwick showed the affairs of the association to be in excellent shape with more assistance having been given traveling teams in playoffs than in previous years. Andy Clark, Revelstoke, was re-elected president with Jack Taylor, Victoria, first vice-president; A. Riley, Vancouver, second vice-president; Walter Hardwick, Vancouver, secretary-treasurer and V. D. Lewis, Kelowna, executive member. Two other executive officers will be appointed, one each from the Island and mainland associations. N. R. Porter, Vancouver, is a member of the executive as past president, while Mayor Ansonby, Victoria, is honorary president, and Dr. Irving, Kamloops, and Dr. J. A. Gillespie, Vancouver, honorary vice-presidents.

ARGENTINA WINS U.S. POLO TITLE

Santa Paula Four Spring Spectacular Win Over Hurricanes in Final 11 to 8

Westbury, N.Y., Sept. 21.—On the crest of an inspired, unbeatable surge, the battered four horsemen of Argentina, carrying the banner of Santa Paula, upset the vaunted Anglo-American Hurricanes, three-time titleholders, and captured the United States open polo championship Saturday in spectacular fashion, 11 to 8. Crippled and conceded no more than a slim outside chance, Santa Paula's riders shattered the hopes and the Hurricanes' winning streak at one and the same time. Manuel Andrada, burly captain and back of the Argentines, who played only because one of his teammates was more seriously injured, proved the outstanding star. Andrada, his right hand taped and his left shoulder bandaged, delivered the goals that both started and closed the whirlwind attack of the South Americans. He led the scorers of both teams with five goals.

The victory gave Argentina the main prize of the United States polo for the second time in ten years. Lewis Lacey led the first South American invasion in 1922 and triumphed. The Hurricanes were shown of the title they had won previously in 1926, 1929 and 1930.

Royals Win Soccer At Nanaimo By 3-1

New Westminster Captures Opening Game at Up-island City Before 2,000

Nanaimo Has Edge But Finishes Poorly; St. Saviour's Win at Vancouver 3 to 0

Nanaimo, Sept. 21.—The fine weather and on a fast pitch New Westminster Royals, Dominion football champions, defeated Nanaimo City 3 to 1 here yesterday in the local opening of the Pacific Coast League. The Royals were fortunate to win, Nanaimo having an edge on the play, but finishing badly in front of goal. New Westminster's goalie had easily five times as many saves as Blewett, for Nanaimo, but seemed unbelievable saving drives from all angles. In the first half the Royals started out strongly and scored through Turner, who put in a lightning shot that gave Blewett no chance. The opening goal came after seventeen minutes of play. From this stage the locals got into their stride and after their full share of the game, scoring after thirty-five minutes to equalize, and forcing five corners from the time they scored till the whistle blew.

ROYALS SCORE EARLY.—From the start Royals came away with a rush and scored in two minutes to again take the lead, and for a time had the better of the exchanges. Nanaimo rallied to take the upper hand, but unable to score, Royals made a break and scored again at twenty-two minutes. Nanaimo had the best of the Royals was not to be beaten. The locals forced ten corners in quick order, but all were fruitless, several attempts missing by inches. Two thousand spectators saw the game and gave the Royals a great hand when they were introduced as champions of Canada. John Hunt, general manager of the Western Fuel Co. and honorary president of the Nanaimo club, kicked off to officially open the soccer season here.

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—Three thousand people saw St. Saviour's take the Pacific Coast Soccer League opening game from St. Andrew's, 3 to 0, yesterday. They also saw Ernie Bradbury, 200-pound center forward, score all the goals. Jimmy McLarnin got a big hand when he kicked off and the spectators were given a fair entertainment, although lack of condition was a big factor in the failure of the Scots' forward line to get together. No substitutions were made during the game, but the broadened rule is to be introduced shortly.

J.B.A.A. TO MEET.—A meeting of the J.B.A.A. men's basketball teams will be held at the club, Tuesday evening, at 7:30 o'clock. All last year's players and those interested are asked to attend.

Ruth and Gehrig Crash Homers to Help Beat Indians

New York Continues Belated Dash to Hold Second Place in American League by 7 to 1 and 10 to 1 Victories Over Cleveland; Washington Remains in Fight With Double Victory Over Chicago; New York Giants Drop Pair to Chicago Cubs; Gaby Street Returns to Line-up as Cards Lose

With the end of the major league season a week away and the two pennants firmly in the grasp of the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, there still are several places in the major league standings to be decided in the last seven days.

The National League is in a fairly settled condition with the first three places clinched but only about three of the American League clubs can be sure of where they will finish. The Athletics are safe at the top. The fourth place Cleveland Indians can move neither up nor down, and the Chicago White Sox are not likely to get out of the cellar. But second place is the source of some excitement as the New York Yankees have staged a belated rush to win ten games in a row to grab the post away from Washington, while at the top of the second division Detroit and Boston are tied and St. Louis is only a half game behind.

The Yanks' belated rush in one of the season's best winning streaks put New York ahead of Washington on Saturday and kept the McCarthy men there yesterday when each club won a doubleheader.

Two second inning rallies, bringing five runs apiece, gave New York a pair of victories over the Cleveland Indians 7 to 1 and 10 to 4 and ended Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig to continue their race for the home honors. Gehrig hit his forty-fifth homer in the first rally and Ruth clouted his forty-fourth in the second game. Babe's heavy Johnson and Gordon Rhodes turned in a pair of good mound performances.

Pat Caraway of the Chicago White Sox was the victim of Washington's double victory. He pitched the final inning of the opener and was nicked for the run that gave the Senators a 10-to-3 victory. Then he relieved Garland for the last four frames of the second game and granted two runs in the seventh that cost him the game 6 to 4.

The teams that are trying to settle the question of fifth, sixth and seventh places were tied. St. Louis and Boston had a double-header rained out while Detroit, with the Athletics, and the Red Sox, with the Yankees, were scheduled.

After clinching second place in the National League Saturday, the New York Giants turned around yesterday and dropped both games of a double-header to Chicago, allowing the Cubs to make sure of finishing no worse than third. Brooklyn took a 6-to-1 decision from the Cardinals, but the St. Louis Browns can do now is to tie Chicago.

Heavy hitting and loose playing marked the Cub-Giant twin bill. Chicago hammered four pitchers for twenty hits in the opener and won 16 to 6, although Pat Malone allowed fourteen safeties.

In the second game, Warneke and Parmelee each had one bad inning, the second in which the Cubs took a 3-to-4 lead as they held that margin to the finish, winning 7 to 6. Chicago made five errors in the second contest and New York four in the first.

An old familiar name appeared in yesterday's box score. Gabby Street, the Chicago catcher, who was a big league catcher almost too many years ago to mention, donned a mask for three innings to receive Sylvester Johnson's pitches. The battery was not as successful as Clark and Lopez for Brooklyn and the Robins had a comparatively easy victory as St. Louis got only eight hits.

Keeping things moving for the one really doubtful National League position, the Cincinnati Reds sent the Boston Braves into the seventh, behind the little Phillies, by winning two of three. Larry Senneker allowed the Braves six hits to win the opener, 5 to 2, while an eight-run rally in the seventh decided the second clash 14 to 5.

British Tennis Stars Lose Exhibition Matches in Pacific Southwest Tourney

Keith Gledhill Takes One-Set Match From Vines; Match Play Opened To-day

Los Angeles, Sept. 21.—It was Britain day in the fifth annual Pacific Southwest tennis tournament yesterday, but England's two Davis Cup stars, George Hughes and Frederick Perry, performing before the British consul and approximately 2,000 others, failed to win either of their appearances in the exhibition matches which marked the play.

Hughes teamed with Miss Ed Croas, San Francisco, holder of the Canadian-national title, to lose mixed doubles contest to George L. Phillips, and Mrs. L. S. Harj Oakland, 5-7, 6-2, 8-6.

Later he teamed with Perry to down in defeat before the Wimbles, and French doubles champions, I. and Jeanne Daband, former St. Mary's, Los Angeles, 6-4, 6-3.

The American pair won as it pleased since Hughes in particular was experiencing difficulty with his reverse side.

Ellsworth Vines, Pasadena, California, teamed with former St. Louis, Mo., player, to lose mixed doubles contest to George L. Phillips, and Mrs. L. S. Harj Oakland, 5-7, 6-2, 8-6.

Match play opened to-day with Vines leading No. 3 in the men's singles facing the hardest opponent in I. Hincley, Pasadena, former St. Louis captain. Vines, No. 1 on the tour, should have no difficulty coping with Jack Beckman, Los Angeles.

HEAVYWEIGHTS IN SPOTLIGHT DURING WEEK

Schaaf Meets Tuffy Griffith at Chicago Wednesday

Tom Loughran and Joe S. Yra Hook Up To-morrow Night

New York, Sept. 21.—Fistic prickers, hoping for well-filled arenas week, again are pinning their collective faith upon the heavyweights. A half-dozen of the big fellows, including Ernie Schaaf of Boston, Baer of Oakland, Calif., and Tom Loughran of Philadelphia, appear in headlines in various fistic circles during the next few days. Schaaf, who has run up a string ten successive knockouts, the last the giant Argentine, Victorio Cam will battle Tuffy Griffiths, Sioux puncher, at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night in what looks as week's most important offering. Griffiths once was regarded as a champion, but always has fallen a victim of his friends' most enthusiastic predictions. Baer, whose winter eastern invader brought him only defeats by Loughran and Schaaf and a questionable victory over Tom Heeney, battles Jack Stryker of Los Angeles at Oakland Wednesday night. Loughran, the boxing master of the Queensboro Stadium's card Tuesday night, meeting the Da Ohio, veteran Joe Stryker, recent conquerer of Charley Betts, a Duluth heavyweight, Retzlaff and other promising youngsters. At Cincinnati, Thursday, Battalino of Hartford, Conn., will featherweight champion, will Bushy Graham, Ulca, N.Y., veteran ten-round non-title affray, and Louis Wednesday the first boxing under the New York State law, fifteen fifteen-round bouts will be held. Lou Terry and Sammy Ward, St. Louis lightweights, will clash the Missouri title of that district.

McKechnie Cup Rugby Dates Announced

Victoria "Reps" to Play Vancouver In Opener Here Dec. 26

Second Game Here Scheduled for January 9 Between Victoria and Varsity; Vancouver Are Defending Champions; B.C. Rugby Union at Meeting Saturday Completes Arrangements for Japanese Tour Next Year by Canadian Fifteen; English Team to Tour Canada in 1932-33; International Rules Are Adopted

Playing dates for the McKechnie Cup rugby series between Victoria and Vancouver "rep" teams were announced today by J. Ketchen, secretary of the British Columbia Union, following a meeting of that organization in Vancouver Saturday evening. Victoria "rugger" fans will witness their first game in the blue ribbon series on December 26, when the local stars will oppose Vancouver, while the second fixture is scheduled here on January 9 between Victoria and Varsity.

The series will comprise six matches, three in Victoria and the remainder in Vancouver. The opening match is scheduled at Vancouver on November 26, when the two teams will meet for the first time since the same two clubs will wind up their competition at Vancouver on March 21. Vancouver are defending champions.

ME MAKES PROGRESS
One of the features of Saturday evening's gathering was the report by Reg. Woodward, B.C. delegate to the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union in the east. Mr. Woodward, who is secretary of the union organization, told of the progress being made by the union throughout Canada. Every province except Alberta is now a member of the union and the game has a strong hold in the east and on the prairies. In Toronto and vicinity five clubs are now operating, while in the west, the number of clubs is increasing. Woodward stated that plans have been completed for an English team to make a tour of Canada during the 1932-33 season.

Delegates to Saturday's meeting completed arrangements for a tour next year of Japan by a Canadian English rugby fifteen. It is expected the team will sail from Victoria about January 1 for a six-game tour in Osaka and a like number in Tokyo.

The B.C. Union decided to adopt the international rules, doing away with the New Zealand regulations, which were the kick to touch. Saturday's meeting was also attended by V. L. Denton, president of the Victoria Rugby Union, who acted as the delegate.

CUP SCHEDULE
The complete McKechnie Cup schedule follows:
November 11—Varsity vs. Vancouver (Vancouver).
December 26—Vancouver vs. Victoria (Victoria).
January 9—Victoria vs. Varsity at Victoria.
March 7—Victoria vs. Varsity at Vancouver.
March 21—Vancouver vs. Victoria (Vancouver).

Bill Terry led the Big Six hitters yesterday as he pounded out five hits in eight trips to the plate in a double-header, but he failed by two points to overtake Chick Hefey, National League batting leader. Terry picked up four points, but Hefey, hitting two out of four, lifted his average one point to .348. Although he was idle, Al Simmons' margin of leadership in the American League grew wider as Babe Ruth lost one point and Eddie Morgan dropped two. Ruth made two hits, one his forty-fourth homer of the year, in six times up. Morgan hit one out of six.

Swedish Heavyweight Grappler Defeats Pat McKay in Thrilling Match Here

Pair Crash to Floor in Hectic Fifth Round; "Rocky" Brooks Beats Needham

In one of the most vicious bouts seen here in months, Axel Anderson, Swedish heavyweight wrestler from New York, defeated Pat McKay, giant Irishman from Philadelphia, two falls out of three at the Tillamook gymnasium on Saturday night. Anderson won because he proved to possess the most recuperative powers and managed to be the first to crawl back inside the ring in the fifth round after the pair had crashed to the floor outside the ropes and knocked themselves unconscious. The decision of Referee Fred Richardson was greeted with boos as McKay appeared to be just as much inside the ropes as his opponent when the third man finished his count of twenty and the fans called for a draw.

"Rocky" Brooks was the winner in the five-round semi-windup gaining the third and winning fall from Elma Needham, Bellingham grappler.

A FINE CARD
The card was the best staged by the Tillamook Club for some time and was well received by the good crowd. All the bouts produced no end of action with the main event being a fitting climax to a first class show.

Anderson and McKay opened their bout as if they had a number of old differences to settle. They lost little time getting into action and in the first five minutes had used rabbit punches, kicks and butts to inflict punishment on each other. Anderson managed to throw McKay flat on his back to secure a body pin and armlock and McKay appeared in a bad way. He managed to wriggle clear and roughed Anderson up with his elbows and rabbit punches. The bell ending the first round found Anderson attempting to put on a Boston crab.

With the start of the second round Anderson commenced throwing McKay around the ring with reverse headlocks. After going to the ropes for a short count in on one leg McKay jumped back inside and punished Anderson with flying mares. The big Swede suddenly jumped to his feet and when McKay tried to secure another flying mare he grabbed him in mid-air and body slammed him for the opening fall.

In the third round Anderson secured arm lock and head scissors and McKay worked hard before getting free. McKay secured a double toe-hold only to have Anderson work through the ropes and take a count of eighteen. McKay returned to the offensive and McKay took to his bicycle running around the ring to keep away from his burly opponent. McKay suddenly came to life and launched himself at Anderson over the ropes and pulled McKay over the top of the ropes into the ring.

Anderson's attack on the referee, which drew boos from the crowd, apparently roused Pat McKay as he sunk his head in Anderson's stomach and then fell on him for the tying fall much to the delight of the fans.

The pair came out to start the fifth round with blood in their eyes. McKay threw himself across the ring with his head lowered and butted Anderson to the mat. He repeated the move and then when Anderson got up the second time he butted him clear through the ropes and, unable to check himself, went crashing to the floor alongside his opponent. Both were lying on the floor, dead to the world, with Anderson reviving first and climbing back half inside the ropes on the count of nineteen. He was awarded the bout. McKay had also not to his feet and was standing up in the ring when the referee had just finished his count and it looked like he was at least entitled to a draw.

Brooks found himself up against a clever youngster in Needham. The Bellingham grappler gained the opening fall in the second round when he made "Rocky" tap the mat to save himself further punishment from a wrist break. Brooks rallied to even matters in the fourth with a body press and then took the winning fall in the fifth with a Boston crab. Needham missed a chance to win the bout in the final round when he had Brooks in a double toe-hold, but let him go when the Victoria wrestler banged on the mat, apparently thinking "Rocky" was ready to give up.

Waring Drives Home Four Goals to Help Villa Crush Chelsea

Stars in 6-to-3 Victory Saturday in English First Division Football; Dean Completes Hat-trick as Liverpool Defeats Everton 3 to 1; 55,000 Pack Stands an Hour Before Match Starts; Dean Netted Opening Goal in First Thirty Seconds; Morton Stages Stirring Finish to Draw With Celtic in Scottish First Division

London, Sept. 21.—All Liverpool seemed to be anxious to see the local "Derby" Saturday between Everton and Liverpool in English League soccer fixtures. The gates were closed an hour before the match started and the official attendance was given as 55,000. Everton won by 3 to 1 in impressive fashion.

Other fine first division wins were those of the Wednesday over Huddersfield Town, Arsenal over Manchester City, West Bromwich Albion from Blackburn Rovers and Bolton Wanderers from Middlesbrough. Aston Villa crushed Chelsea, the latter club having collected only two points out of six games.

The Everton-Liverpool game, which was played at Anfield Road, had a sensational start. Dean, Everton's star centre forward, scored in thirty seconds and Wright equalized three minutes later. Everton had the better of the struggle that ensued and eventually Dean scored again, netting a centre by Critchley. Dean completed his hat-trick just before half time.

LIVERPOOL FIGHTS BACK
Liverpool fought back doggedly in the second half, but could not score. Huddersfield Town's defence had a terrific hammering from the Wednesday forwards. Huddersfield began strongly, but the league leaders soon forced the corner, McMillan hitting in the fortieth minute. Rimmer had the Wednesday's second on a penalty kick. Behind two goals on resumption Huddersfield attacked vigorously, Smith hitting the crossbar. Millership had the Wednesday's third. Rimmer quickly added their fourth. Mangell saved Huddersfield from a whitewash.

Chelsea, who played at home, included Gallacher in their team. The pensioners got off the mark quicker and Gallacher sent in a whistling shot, which rebounded from the crossbar in the fourth minute. Miller sent it back for a goal.

WARNING IS STAR
The Villa were quick to react, Waring busting through the Chelsea defence, scoring twice himself and giving Houghton a pass for the third goal. Jackson after the interval headed it for Chelsea and later scored their third. Meanwhile, Waring had again goal scored twice. Houghton's drive from twenty-five yards out completed Chelsea's downfall.

Bad shooting robbed Bury of victory at Port Vale, the match ending in a one-all draw. York booked first for Bury and Smith equalized in the forty-fourth minute of the first half. The teams are in the second division.

Two quick goals by Chesterfield upset the usually strong Bradford defence. Pitt goalied on a left footer and Bell, a header, before half time. After the interval, McMillan scored from thirty yards out and again from a corner. Pynegar replied from Thorne's pass and gave Chesterfield victory.

London, Sept. 21.—Staging a stirring finish, Morton compelled the great Celtic machine to divide the points with them in a Scottish First Division soccer match at Greenock on Saturday. The score in the game was 3 to 3. Morton were down two goals at the interval. They tied the score, only to get behind again. Morton evened the count once more in the last minute on a penalty kick. Black did the hat-trick for Celtic.

In another First Division fixture Hearts of Park sprang a surprise on Hearts at Hampden Park. They ran in five goals in the first half and had the Edinburgh completely demoralized. Hearts fought back in the second half, but they were three goals behind at the end. Scores: First Division matches Saturday were: Aberdeen: Warrack, 2; Yorkston: Love, Beattie, Ayr United: Merrie. Clyde: Parr, Boyd, Motherwell: Perrier, Douglas, Boyle.

Dundee United: Radcliffe, Mire, nil. Falkirk: Morgan, Third Lanark: Dewar, 2; Brechin: 1.

Hamilton: MacLaren, 2; Simpson, 2; Partick Thistle: Simpson, 2; Kilmarnock: Connell, Maxwell, McEwan, from penalty. Cowdenbeath: McKenna, Anderson.

Leith Athletic: Nicol, Dundee: nil. Morton: Hughes, 2; McClelland, McKennie, Bremner, Hearts: Murray, O'Neill.

ROCHESTER WINS TITLE

Red Wings Capture International League Ball Honors for Fourth Straight Year

New York, Sept. 21.—For the fourth successive time the Rochester Red Wings finished on top as the 1931 International League season closed yesterday.

After clinching the title Saturday, the Red Wings held their place two games ahead of the Newark Bears by defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs, 4 to 1, in the final encounter yesterday, while Newark won its last game from Baltimore 6 to 2. Baltimore, which figured for a long time as the third contender in the hot pennant race, wound up in third place, four games behind Newark.

Although the Red Wings' triumph was not so decisive as those of the past two seasons, it was somewhat more satisfactory than their first pennant of the string. In 1928, Rochester finished only one point ahead of Buffalo, due to the fact that some of the games were permanently washed off the schedule. This year Rochester and Newark both played all their games.

Montreal and Buffalo had a double-header permanently rained out today, but the results could not have changed the final standing.

The final standing:
Rochester 101 67 601
Newark 99 69 589
Baltimore 94 72 566
Montreal 85 80 515
Toronto 83 84 497
Reading 79 86 473
Jersey City 65 102 389
Buffalo 61 105 367

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—V.A.C. gained revenge on Fraser Cafe for their defeat Wednesday night in the first game of the provincial play-offs, when they gave the Westminster nine a 12 to 3 drubbing, at Athletic Park Saturday afternoon. It was a loosely-played affair, Fraser Cafe making four errors and V.A.C. two.

In the evening game Fraser Cafe reversed the afternoon's result, defeating V.A.C. 5 to 4.

Harold Webster Wins Marathon Trial With Ease

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 21.—Breaking all records for the local marathon course, Harold Webster, of the Hamilton Olympic Club, came from behind to win the Canadian Olympic Marathon trial here Saturday in two hours, thirty-seven minutes, forty-six seconds. Johnny Miles, famous Maritime and Hamilton runner, was in second place, three minutes behind the leader, and Hartington Anderson of Calgary finished third, five minutes later.

Sixty-seven entered the event, although many by reason of birth, were not eligible for representation on the Canadian team which will go to the Los Angeles Olympics next year. Anderson was one of these.

Victoria Golfers Badly Defeated By Seattle Team

Seattle, Sept. 21.—A Seattle Golf Club team, playing on its home pastures Saturday, repelled a Victoria Golf Club squad, 43 points to 10, in the second half of the home-and-home series played annually between the two clubs.

The result wiped out an eight-point advantage the Northerners had acquired in the first half of the match, played at Victoria last May. It leaves Seattle with a margin of twenty points for the season and the right to have its name inscribed on the duplicate Bloedel Shields, one of which is held at each club.

EUROPE CLOSED, WORLD SELLING POURS INTO N.Y.

Wall Street Opens Off, Then
Rallies; Shorts Curbed

Canadian Stock Exchanges
Placed Under Restrictions;
Grain Pit as Usual

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 21.—Old John Bull's heroic stand against adversity was applauded in Wall Street to-day and supported by a stock market that rallied after an early dip.

Partly because most European exchanges except the Paris Bourse were closed, selling orders poured into New York brokerage houses this morning, but so well had the market been prepared for such a happening that before the end of the first-hour decline of $2 to $6 in principal stocks had been more than recovered.

The rise was checked around noon but was soon renewed with fresh vigor, under the lead of the railroad shares, and the market zoomed upward in the best of spirits.

BANKERS CONFIDENT
Bankers expressed the utmost confidence in Britain and in the measures she has already taken for stabilizing her financial affairs. There was, however, some concern as to the effect of the gold suspension on public sentiment.

CURB SHORT SELLING
The governing board of the exchange invoked the rule forbidding short selling and the result was that heavy offerings of the first half hour when about 1,100,000 shares were easily taken by covering orders.

SOME FAST RISES

Just when it seemed that the fruits of the first automatic rebound might be lost, a report swept through brokerage houses that the Interstate Commerce Commission was soon to announce its decision on the railroad's petition for a 15 per cent freight rate increase. This was taken to mean that at least part of the rise requested would be granted and active short covering poured.

Reading shot up more than $2½ a share, while Atchafalaya, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio, Lehigh Valley, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio rallied $4 to more than $8.

U.S. Steel, which had been well supported throughout the early morning climb of $5 or so net, American Telephone more than recovered a drop of $5.02. Advances of $2 to $5 over Saturday's close were plentiful.

PRESIDENT ISSUES WARNING
Just before the opening time of the stock exchange, the ticker printed a notice saying the exchange would open as usual, but that the governing committee, in view of the suspension of emergency created by the suspension of gold payments in England, at a meeting held early this morning resolved that in its opinion short selling tend to bring out a condition of demoralization in which prices would not fairly reflect market values and therefore would violate the provisions of section 4 of article 17, of the constitution of the exchange.

The statement was signed by Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange.

The committee on business conduct will require all members to report, in detail, daily, beginning to-day, all short positions carried and for whose account.

The New York Exchange announced a few minutes before the opening that it would conduct business as usual.

WINNIPEG GRAIN BUSINESS AS USUAL

Winnipeg, Sept. 21.—Winnipeg Grain Exchange opened for business as usual to-day. No reaction to the British financial situation was evident in the opening prices. Wheat advanced fractionally higher than Saturday's close.

MONTREAL OPENS UNDER RESTRICTIONS

Montreal, Sept. 21.—A report emanating from a special meeting this morning of the governors of the Montreal Stock Exchange states that the local market would open this morning as usual, but "on a restricted basis."

The statement issued by the governing body said that owing to the suspension of gold payments by the abandonment of the gold standard in Great Britain it had been decided to carry on business on the local market on a restricted basis only until further notice. Prices would be fixed at the minimum based on the last board lot sale.

TORONTO ALSO RESTRICTED

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Toronto stock exchanges, including the Toronto Mining Exchange (Standard) opened as usual at 10 o'clock this morning. Trading Stock Exchange committee announced that in trading to-day transactions would be "at or above Saturday's closing or the last previous quotations."

COSGRAVE SAILS FOR BRITAIN ON RETURN TO CHINA

Quebec, Sept. 21.—The stimulus that has been given to Canadian trade with China by Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has brought out evidence that Canadians are studying this market in a far sighted manner. Lt.-Col. L. Moore Cosgrave, trade commissioner for China, said as he sailed Saturday on the Empress of Australia for Southampton and thence to China.

He praised a definite trend on the part of Canadian exporters to operate in allied groups in the formation of export associations, citing particularly producers of raw materials, lumber, fish, flour and canned goods.

WILL BORROW RELIEF FUNDS IN VANCOUVER

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—The city proposes to negotiate for a loan of $2,000,000 or $2,500,000 from the Dominion Government at a low rate of interest, to cover Vancouver's share of the cost of relief work for its married unemployed this winter.

The interest rate which will be charged by the government has not yet been announced.

BANKERS JOIN NEWSPAPERS IN PRAISING MOVE

gold while there still were gold reserves enough to meet the government's needs.

NOT CAUGHT LIKE GERMANY
Britain was not going to let herself get caught like Germany did just after the war when the mark crumbled to practically nothing because Germany's reserves had been wiped out, financial experts declare. The fall in the dollar value of the pound has been anticipated and discounted by bankers, it is said.

On effect of the suspension of the gold standard will be to cut down imports. This also has been discounted since it has been assumed Britain must impose tariffs anyway.

WILL RESTORE TRADE

"This step seems to me to be the second necessary stage in the work of the National government, the first being the balancing of the budget," Mr. Morgan said. "The completion of the government's work will be the restoration of trade in this country."

"This being the case," Mr. Morgan continued, "it seems to me hopeful and that the government's action will bring the great work of the government much nearer to accomplishment."

MORGAN BREAKS SILENCE RULE

In receiving the Associated Press correspondent, J. P. Morgan broke an almost ironclad rule never to grant newspaper interviews. His father observed the same rule before him.

But once the distinguished banker decided to talk, no one could have been more cordial. He discussed the situation for almost an hour and while it is not permitted to quote him any further than above, it may be said that in the entire discussion he did not express any pessimism.

And he added a word of fine tribute for the character and stability of the British people.

BACK IN THE TRENCHES

Several other financiers expressed similar opinions. Without exception they held the view that the government's latest step is in the right direction and that Britain will weather her crisis. There was no disposition to try to evade the fact that the situation is very serious.

Indeed, one of the most hopeful signs these financial experts find is that Great Britain does recognize the situation is serious and is attacking her problem from that standpoint.

The average Englishman this morning climbed back into the trenches and there was a determined grin on his face as he grabbed his gun and remarked: "Well, we did it before and we can do it again."

That was the spirit one encountered everywhere in London to-day.

NEWSPAPERS ENTHUSIASTIC

The London Daily Mail, which has always opposed British adherence to the gold standard, welcomed its suspension this morning and said it would stimulate every trade and industry and "take a load off the nation's back."

No better moment could have been chosen, The Mail's financial editor said, for the change, since commodity prices are low and stocks of wheat in Great Britain abnormally high.

The paper expressed the belief that the suspension will lead to a great revival in the iron, coal and steel industries and in many other directions.

The depreciation of the exchange valuation of pounds will, it said, mean that Great Britain will be able to sell abroad more cheaply than her competitors, while the home market will be available for home manufacturers. There is "not the least fear," it said, "that the pound will fall to 'impossible low levels.'"

AID BRITISH EXPORT TRADE

The Daily Herald, Labor and Socialist organ, commends the government for what it calls "a wise and salutary step which would be a distinct advantage to British export trade."

"It will compel the French and American bankers and governments," The Daily Herald, Labor, said, "to reconsider the whole problem of the gold standard, which has not been functioning properly because France and America have been hoarding gold. Now they must face the situation."

"It is obvious that the next move is the calling of an international conference to work out the gold and kindred problems."

DAILY TELEGRAPH ALONE REGRETFUL

The Daily Telegraph, which has been a strong adherent of the gold standard, and speaks for the banking and bond-holding class, regretted the step, but said that "events have been too strong for the government."

"Great Britain," The Telegraph said, "may have been driven to lower the proud flag of the gold standard, but she will not consciously help to bring it about will be the first to regret it—it is a moral certainty that Great Britain won't go off the gold standard alone."

DAILY EXPRESS HURTLED

"Nothing more heartening has happened in years," says The Daily Express. "Never mind how it came about. Don't waste time reviling foreigners or mourning about humiliation. Whatever the monetary difficulties and embarrassments, it is good news that we are rid of the gold standard."

WALL STREET ALSO APPLAUDS

New York, Sept. 21.—Part suspension of gold payments by the Bank of England was applauded in high Wall Street banking circles to-day as a constructive measure dictated by an emergency situation.

It was pointed out that the suspension does not affect the recent loans to Great Britain by the Federal Reserve and the private banking syndicate, since these loans are specifically payable in gold dollars. Neither does it affect the service on the bulk of British dollar bonds held in this country, since they are specifically payable both as to principal and interest in gold dollars.

It is expected here that the British banking authorities will control foreign exchange transactions in a measure similar to the control which has been exercised in Germany.

While the British crisis has caused considerable uneasiness in financial circles, largely because of the uncertainty of the outcome, Wall Street bankers assert it will have less effect on the American banking system, since American short-term balances in London are small indeed compared with those in Germany.

American banks have maintained small balances in London for their clients, but these are estimated in informed banking quarters here as probably not exceeding $50,000,000.

CANADIAN BANKERS SEE NO ALARM

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 21.—"There is no cause for undue alarm. Time is an important factor in a situation like this, and will bring about an improvement in the situation."

POUND STERLING FALLS TO $3.75 ON FIRST NEWS

Canadian Dollar Declines to 94½ Cents; Exchanges
Demoralized

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 21.—Fluctuating widely, the British pound sterling dipped to a new low for the present decade of $3.75 for cable transfers before rallying around $4.35 in the foreign exchange market here to-day.

The temporary suspension of the gold standard by Great Britain demoralized the foreign exchange market and bankers experienced difficulty in establishing a market price for foreign currencies and in only a few instances were rates more than nominal. Only six foreign currencies were generally quoted.

The Canadian dollar suffered with the pound sterling, and fell to the lowest level reached in many years, being quoted at a discount against United States dollars of 94½ per cent, or only 94½ cents.

The Italian lira sagged 2 cents, Spanish peseta was off 10 points and the French franc and Swiss franc were unchanged.

CANADIAN RATE ONLY NOMINAL

Montreal, Sept. 21.—There were no transactions in the English pound in Montreal to-day and a nominal rate of $4.00 ruled.

BERLIN CLOSES

Berlin, Sept. 21.—German stock exchange and metal bourses remained closed to-day by government order in view of the unsettled financial situation in Great Britain. The procedure for the rest of the week was not determined.

The Bourse committee decided to suspend quotations of securities, foreign currencies and metals. Cuffs will not be permitted. Foreign exchange quotations will be fixed for the time being by the Reichsbank.

PARIS REFUSES TO QUOTE POUND

Paris, Sept. 21.—After a conference with Finance Minister Flaudin and treasury experts, Premier Laval announced that the pound sterling would not be quoted on the Paris Bourse to-day. Despite this measure the premier said there was no reason to be troubled.

"The bourse will operate this afternoon as usual," M. Laval said as he left the conference.

In addition to the Premier and the Finance Minister, those participating in the conference included an official of the bourse, the director of the movement of funds attached to the treasury and R. H. Campbell, attaché at the British embassy.

"The British government was taken all necessary measures and there is no reason for uneasiness," the premier said.

Although no official announcement was made there were reports that the government was not only keeping informed of the exact situation in Great Britain but also that assistance had been offered the British government.

DOUKHOBORS NOT WANTED IN MEXICO

Associated Press
Mexico City, Sept. 21.—The interior department is studying a new petition by Doukhobor farmers of Canada to colonize a part of northern Mexico and while no decision has been reached department officials indicated to-day that there was little likelihood the request would be granted.

A petition was rejected several months ago when President Ortiz Rubio took the stand that it would be unjust to admit foreign colonists so long as the home agrarian problem has not been disposed of.

RELATE TO RUSSIA

Nelson, B.C., Sept. 21.—So far as known here, colonization plans of the Doukhobors with respect to Mexico, referred to in a dispatch Sunday from Mexico City, relate exclusively to a proposed emigration from Russia, respecting which a Doukhobor commission composed of both men and women is now in Russia making representations to the Soviet Government on the matter of passports.

Until Peter Verigin made his recent statement that he proposed to bring this new body of Russians to Canada thus precipitating a flood of protest from western governments and a statement from Ottawa that the migration to Canada would not be permitted, the whole Mexican project had been understood here to be concerned with the Doukhobors still in Russia, sometimes described as a related sect.

No official of the Christian community of universal brotherhood was available Sunday night to comment on the Mexican dispatch, but land experts of the organization here have been to Mexico to examine the possibilities for successful farming, ostensibly with the Russian movement in view.

TOURISTS, IN PANIC, BESIEGE BANKS AS POUND TUMBLES

Nice, France, Sept. 21.—Tourists besieged British and American banks in a panic here when the pound exchange tumbled to-day from 123 francs to nearly 100 francs. Banks bought pounds at 98 francs.

STRIKERS QUIET AT FRASER MILLS

Fraser Mills, Sept. 21.—The situation here in connection with the strike of Canadian Western Lumber Company employees is quiet to-day. Police are on watch as crowds walk around, waiting for H. J. Mackin, local manager of the company, to meet a committee of the men.

ment in due course of time," said Beaudry Leman, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association and president of La Banque Canadienne Nationale, commenting to-day on suspension of the gold standard in Great Britain.

"This step was apparently taken after long consideration and weighing of various questions," continued Mr. Leman. "The suspension of the gold standard may bring about temporary apprehension, but things will right themselves in a short time."

FOLLOW BANK BANDITS' TRAIL IN VANCOUVER

Police Trace Trio, Foiled in
Hold-up Attempt, to False
Creek

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—Several promising leads are being followed by police in their search for the three bandits who attempted to rob the bank of Montreal branch at Sixteenth Avenue and Cambie Street Saturday morning.

The blood-stained overcoat found on the route taken by the robbers after they abandoned a stolen car at Alder and Seventh, has been identified as the coat worn by one of them.

Police believe that the bandits, one of whom was wounded by a shot fired by R. L. Robinson, teller in the bank, fled north from the car along Alder Street to Sixth Avenue, then down a flight of steps to the railway tracks on the south shore of False Creek.

Near the premises of the Vancouver Machinery Depot, West Sixth, it is thought two of the men gave assistance to their wounded comrade, took off his coat and threw it into a pile of lumber there. That the coat was pulled off the wearer by others is indicated by the fact that the sleeves are turned inside out, detectives say. The garment is of good quality. It is believed after first aid had been given the trio proceeded east along the waterfront.

Hospitals and doctors' offices have been checked in the hope that the wounded man might have sought medical aid, but no results in this line have been obtained.

DOLLAR DECLINE ONLY TEMPORARY

New York, Sept. 21.—Word was received here to-day that Canada will ship $510,000 in gold to New York. More than $2,000,000 was received here from Canada last week. The present Canadian gold reserve is $70,000,000, or 52 4-10 per cent of notes in circulation.

Canadian Press

Montreal, Sept. 21.—That depreciation of the Canadian dollar on New York exchange is only of a temporary character and need not cause concern to investors on the general public, was stated to-day by Beaudry Leman, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

"Such depreciation of our dollar comes in occasional cycles," said Mr. Leman, who is also president of La Banque Canadienne Nationale. "The Canadian dollar has been very low before in New York, but it has come back to normal, and it will again in time. It is in keeping with the general situation and need not cause concern. Time will prove a healing factor in this matter, as in the general financial situation."

The Canadian dollar was quoted at 93.65 cents on the New York foreign exchange markets at the close of trading to-day.

The dollar, which started the day at a nominal discount of 3 per cent, fell steadily. At noon it had reached a discount of 3½ per cent and by 1.30 in the afternoon had dropped another point, to a half. Last sales reported quoted the discount rate at 6.5 per cent, the highest it had been in many years.

ESTEVEAN MINERS WOULD CONSIDER RETURN TO WORK

Estevan, Sask., Sept. 21.—"Serious consideration" would be given by the striking miners in this area to returning to work if a royal commission were appointed to investigate their charges of alleged victimization and "deplorable working conditions."

This statement was made here yesterday evening by Sam Scarlett, organizer of the miners' union, under whose auspices the strike had been in progress for the last thirteen days. He said that the District Court, Estevan, said that he had received no official word of the setting up of a royal commission or a board of conciliation under his chairmanship. He expected to receive definite word to-day.

Ten small mine operators in the strike area were reported by union officials to have signed agreements to-day recognizing the union. The mines, however, are those in the district which employ on an average of between two to ten men. None of them are members of the Saskatchewan Coal Operators' Association, which controls the ninety per cent of the output of the field and which still steadfastly refuses to recognize the union on account of its alleged "red affiliations."

Mine operators returned to Estevan after conferring in Regina with the provincial cabinet on strike matters. The operators would not discuss what had happened at the meeting on their return. Elsewhere in the province news brooded over the idle mine fields.

OKANAGAN GALE EXACTS HEAVY TOLL ON FRUIT

Storm Rips Roof Off Packing
Shed; Trees, Poles and Wires Blown Down

Penticton, Sept. 21.—A storm of almost hurricane force swept down the Okanagan Valley from the north at noon Sunday, leaving destruction in its wake both on fruit ranches and in the town.

The wind struck the lakefront at Penticton with terrific force, peeling the roof from one of the packing-houses of the Penticton Co-operative Growers like the skin from an onion. It blew down trees, telephone poles and wires, and did considerable damage to the tourist camps, store awnings and light structures in town.

The roof from the packing-house, which was not of a permanent type, was scattered over cars standing on the railway siding. Part of it was blown over the freight shed and dropped on to adjacent ground.

Fortunately the roof of the old storage plant, in which much valuable fruit is stored, was left intact. No damage was done to the interior of the packing-house or to the packing equipment, and packing and shipping of fruit will not be interrupted. Within an hour of the demolition of the roof packing-house employees were mobilized and the debris was cleared up.

Although the gale blew for less than half an hour, the loss of fruit will be quite heavy, more especially to orchardists who had not commenced to pick McIntosh Reds. Delicious and Yellow Newtons fell heavily, strewn the ground with the larger and better apples from the tree tops.

The loss in this district alone will run into thousands of boxes.

RUPEE PEGGED

London, Sept. 21.—The Indian Rupee is to be maintained at its present pegged price of one shilling and sixpence 36 cents.

Mr. Samuel Hoare, Secretary of State for India, told the Indian Round Table Conference: "Since the fixing of the rupee by statute at one shilling and sixpence, sterling has until to-day been synonymous with gold and for all practical purposes the stability of Indian exchange has been based on sterling."

Simple, Sept. 21.—Suspension of the statutory obligation to sell sterling or gold against rupees was announced to-day by Sir George Schuster, finance member of the Government of India, in the Legislative Assembly. Earl Willingdon, Viceroy of India, already has signed the ordinance.

JUDGE GREGORY DISCUSSES GOLD FROM BENCH

Vancouver, Sept. 21.—"We all have to keep our heads," said Mr. Justice Gregory, commenting on the temporary abandonment by Great Britain of the gold standard, at the opening of the fall assizes here to-day.

The matter, he remarked, was of tremendous importance; and how it would strike Canada he did not know. He attributed some of the unrest and unemployment to actions of our forefathers in not giving people an opportunity to improve themselves.

Employers and employees must pull together, said his lordship. A nation, like an individual, becomes bankrupt if it spends more than it has got. He added: He was sure everything would be all right in time.

Bank Of Pittsburgh Suspends Business

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 21.—The Bank of Pittsburgh, founded in 1810, has suspended business and asked the controller of currency to take charge of its assets, which on July 1, were reported as $53,343,953.

TO PREVENT LAYOFFS

New York, Sept. 21.—Office salaried employees of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company will take two weeks vacation without pay between October 1 and February 1, as part of a plan to prevent layoffs and spread work among the largest number of people, it was announced to-day.

CANADIAN MONEY OVER $1 REFUSED ON SEATTLE CAR

Seattle, Sept. 21.—To cope with a mounting discount rate being exacted by banks on Canadian money, orders against accepting Canadian currency or coins in higher denominations than $1 after to-day were given this morning to municipal street car operators.

On small denominations, the discount was 6½ per cent, according to city treasurer H. L. Collier, whose notification caused the order to go in effect on the railway. Mr. Pierce revealed that lesser rates of discount have cost the railway department about $161 during the last few weeks. Had the present rate being exacted, the shrinkage at the expense of the system would have amounted to about $1,125.

Young Fairbanks At The Capitol In New War Play

Plays Leading Role in "Chances" and Gives Fine Performance

"Chances," the spectacular romance of the World War which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre, is the initial starring vehicle which First National provides for Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

"Chances" is adapted from the best-selling novel of A. Hamilton Gibbe. Screen play and dialogue are by Waldemar Young. Alan Dwan directed. It presents in its war sequences the work of the artillery during the war. The romance is that of two young British soldiers—brothers—who both fall in love with the same girl. Temporarily miffed at the one brother, the girl promises to marry the other when the war ends. She later reveals the fact that she is not in love with the youth to whom she is engaged. The working out of the strange conflict comes in the midst of a night bombardment on the Western Front.

Rose Hobart plays the girl. The brother is portrayed by Anthony Bushell. Others in the cast are Holmes Herbert, Mary Forbes, Edmund Bron, Harry Allen, J. H. Fawcett, Edward Morgan and Tyrrell Davis.

Young Fairbanks gives his finest characterization as Jack Ingleside—brave, brutal, laughing, loving, human unknown of the Great War.

Exceptional Cast In "King of Jazz" Now At Columbia Theatre

Paul Whiteman, John Boles, Laura La Plante, Glen Tyrone Are in the Cast

Besides Paul Whiteman, "King of Jazz," now at the Columbia Theatre, it presents an unapproachable array of stage celebrities, vaudeville headliners, and screen stars, among whom are John Boles, Laura La Plante, Glen Tyrone, Jeanette Loff, Grace Hayer, Al Norman, Paul Howard, Frank Leslie, "The Sisters G," the Russell Markers, Daners, the "Hollywood Beauties," the Tommy Atkins Quartet, and Neil O'Day, the Brox Sisters, the Rhythm Boys, Charlie Irwin and many others.

DOMINION THEATRE

"Primarily Chevalier is a great artist," says Lubitsch. "Where his scene are logically woven into the action of a story, they serve to speed up rather than retard its dramatic action. Realization of that fact, coupled with the public demand, prompted us to plan a Chevalier vehicle which would give the star plenty of chance to sing."

"We selected 'The Smiling Lieutenant,' for which Oscar Strauss and Clifford Grey prepared the music and songs."

"The Smiling Lieutenant" is a modern, fast-moving story in which Chevalier is supported by two leading women, the brunette Claudette Colbert, the blonde Miriam Hopkins, and by Charlie Ruggles, humorist of several recent hits. "The Smiling Lieutenant," now showing at the Dominion Theatre, is a rollicking love story filled with lyrical Chevalier humor.

COLISEUM THEATRE

General Sir Ian Hamilton, who commanded the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force in 1915 not only had the success of "Tell England" at heart from the moment the production of this epic of the Gallipoli campaign was first mooted, but he also expressed his willingness to take part in the picture in order to accentuate its authenticity. "Tell England" is now showing at the Coliseum Theatre.

At the suggestion of Anthony Asquith, the co-director of the film, Sir Ian therefore took part in scenes which reconstructed the conference with the captains of the fleet on April 10, 1915, aboard the flagship H.M.S. Queen Elizabeth, which outlined his tactics for the landing ten days later. Dramatically he voices from the screen his determination to "land my whole force in one—like a hammer stroke—with the fullest violence," and there is no doubt that the appearance of this renowned British soldier in "Tell England" plays an important part in this drama of the eastern front.

Favorite Irish Songs Will Be Heard Shortly In 'The Isle o' Dreams'

G. Donald Gray and Company to Open Winter Season at Playhouse Next Week

Favorite Irish songs will be a feature of "The Isle o' Dreams," which will open at the Playhouse Theatre on Monday evening, September 27, as the first presentation in Victoria of the new G. Donald Gray Stock Company. Mr. Gray's fine baritone voice will be heard to advantage in such delightful selections as "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Macushla," and "Mother Machree," all immortalized by John McCormack, and the well-known theme song, "The Isle o' Dreams."

"The Isle o' Dreams" is a light drama, and will be interspersed with these musical selections. There is a wealth of humor in it, as well as a tear and perhaps a sigh, but all round it is a most enjoyable show and is bound to be appreciated here.

Remodelling and renovating is now going on at the Playhouse Theatre in preparation for the premiere performance next week. The outside of the theatre is being made attractive as well as the inside and patrons are promised something new and pleasing in the way of stage scenery when the curtain goes up on the first performance.

It is planned to give a performance every evening with matinee presentations on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

Jeanette MacDonald and Reginald Denny In Playhouse Story

Have Leading Roles in Amazing and Hilarious Modern Comedy, "Oh, For a Man"

Coming here preceded by the most glowing praise from every city in which it has been shown, "Oh, For a Man" for moviegoers production at the Playhouse Theatre to-day, promises to delight and entertain local audiences to a great degree.

"Oh, For a Man" is a directorial product of the youthful Fox director, Hamilton MacFadden, who is hailed in filmland as having ideas of such a modern and progressive note that he is topping such directors as Lubitsch.

Jeanette MacDonald, who rose to cinema fame as co-star with Chevalier in "The Smiling Lieutenant," is co-starring this time with Reginald Denny and the combination is even more impressive. The story is that of a temperamental prima donna and a most successful one who is courted by all men but has no time for any of them. She has her own ideas of the sort of a man she could love and never does find her ideal until a burglar enters her apartment in the dead of the night to rob her of her jewels.

MORE HOMELESS FLOCK TO WEST

B.C. Government Alarmed at Influx From Prairie Provinces

With prairie provinces making no efforts to check the exodus, hundreds of men continue to flock to British Columbia on freight cars arriving at the mainland to add to the troubles of the B.C. Government in providing work for unemployed. Saturday Premier Tomin again took the matter up with the Dominion Government requesting Ottawa to bear the whole burden of the cost of men arriving in British Columbia in this manner. The master bill also was discussed a conference of western provinces in Calgary and efforts will be made to check the migration of homeless men to British Columbia.

Registration checked by the Department of Public Works up to Saturday gave a total of 48,191 under the provincial plan. Embodied in the total are 4,440 persons—British born, 998 women, and 33,316 who say they are willing to go to camp.

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 21.—In an interview with The Observer to-day Sir Barry Jackson, distinguished playwright and producer, who is going to Canada next Saturday, stated his object in visiting the Dominion was to infuse Canadians "with the idea of forming a theatre of their own."

Sir Barry is to lecture in the Dominion, and he is also taking a company which will present various plays in Canada.

MORE WORK FOR LAYMEN IN CHURCH

Anglican Synod Decides to Bring Laymen Into Closer Relationship

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 20.—Appointment of an organizing secretary to bring laymen into closer relationship with the church was decided upon at the general synod meeting of the Church of England in Canada here Saturday. Laymen declared attendance at church was falling off, partly because laymen were not given enough work to do, and partly because sermons were not of a type to appeal to people looking for practical advice applicable to every-day needs.

The Anglican National Commission in its report recommended that in each parish a group of the laity should be empowered to assist in forming the policy and carrying out the work of the clergyman in charge.

"Laymen have no authoritative status other than as advisers and Sunday school teachers," declared Mr. Justice Hodgins. "There is no use giving the laymen your blessing and refusing to aid them by a paid secretary," he said.

Reports that unbelief was strong among young people of high schools and universities were denied by prominent delegates at the synod. It was felt that such reports constituted a grave and unfounded reflection upon these institutions and the teachers and professors on their staffs.

Ven. Archbishop F. H. Graham, Nelson, B.C., declared most youths encountered a period when their faith was shaken. But the truth remained, "I doubt if the young people were ever more anxious than those of today to know Jesus's message and to life and fellowship," he said.

Canon H. J. Gedy of Toronto, declared there was no more loss of faith in the high schools and universities than elsewhere. Allegations of practical atheism at the University of Toronto, he asserted, meant "nothing more than the quest for information which comes to young men and women when they come into contact with things scientific."

Ecclesiastical statistics presented by Rt. Rev. W. R. Adams, Bishop of Carleton Place, revealed a church population of 806,000. Civil statistics compiled by the Dominion Census Department showed the number of Anglicans as twice that figure. One half of the Pacific Dominance In World Foreseen

Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald Gives Brilliant Address on "Pacific Bowl" at North Saanich Service Club's Annual Banquet on Saturday Evening

A brilliant review of trade possibilities and future development of the nations bordering the Pacific Ocean was given Saturday evening by Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, in an address on "The Pacific Bowl," which featured the annual banquet of the North Saanich service club held at the clubhouse on School Cross Road. There was a large and enthusiastic attendance. Capt. C. R. Wilson, past president, was chairman and toastmaster. Among the distinguished guests were Premier Tolmie, who proposed the toast to the ladies, to which Mrs. H. T. J. Coleman responded, and Mayor

Anson, who replied to the toast to the guests, proposed by R. C. Nicholas. The toast to the club was proposed by George J. Bruce and replied to by Dr. W. G. Newton, president.

The excellent entertainment included vocal selections by Miss Marjorie Watson, soprano, and Frank Spooner, tenor; recitations by Miss Ella Pottinger; a humorous sketch by the Mimes and Masquers Guild; and instrumental selections by Harold Taylor, cellist and Donald Cameron, piper, who played an air specially composed by him three years ago in honor of Ex-Lieutenant-Governor R. R. Bruce. Cecil Heston accompanied the artists.

The address by Mr. Justice Macdonald was, in part, as follows:

"First, may I say that it will not appear out of place for a member of the Bench to discuss with you such topics as 'events in the Pacific,' a subject entirely removed from my own special field of work.

"The late Lord Birkenhead said that it was not the professions of law or medicine that kept the main arteries of the nation full and vital. The existence of the nation, he said, depends on our traders, and he added 'by trade and by trade alone could the graces and ornaments of life be preserved.'

"We should have, therefore, the growth of professional or cultural or spiritual forces, if you will, in trade and industry, emerging step by step, leaving behind the old conception of 'caveat emptor' which often prevails, reaching forward to higher ideals, that trade and industry does not exist for profit but for the service of society.

"The Greeks, who had a great industrial life as well as an artistic life, recognized the obligations that attach to the possession of wealth. Although in later days the pedulum swung to the other extreme of 'get all you can and keep all you get'—to-day the moral force of the race is again asserting itself, demanding that trade and industry shall be the great agency and contributor to social reform, the patron of Art and the handmaid of philanthropy.

"Businessmen, therefore, must concern themselves with the social humanitarian and cultural aspects of trade. Some say it retards business to economize. The depends on whom the business one is thinking of. I think it is good business for individuals and governments. I hope in future all governments will economize when times are good and be prepared when times are bad. Conditions are not good, but there are underlying basic facts for our encouragement.

"SUFFICIENT FOR ALL.

"The wealth of the earth is ample to supply the wants of men. What an anomaly is to be suffering from an over-supply in some commodities here and a scarcity there. You can see the necessity of raising the standard of living in Far Eastern lands. That is why the Orient is potentially so attractive. Through science raw material can be converted into finished products on an enormous scale, too fast in fact for requirements with present standards of living in many countries. A world economic conference was held at Geneva in 1927; fifty nations were represented by 260 delegates and 160 experts. Their report and recommendations appeared to me to be sound but they fell on deaf ears.

"I will rely on the expert knowledge of my doctor if I am sick and a sick world must rely on economic experts or fall a prey to noisy charlatans.

"The torch and faith of hope must be kept burning. We must have regard to that cultural development of the soul of a nation which should accompany physical growth. An English poet wrote 'What do they know of England who only England know?' Do you catch the thought underlying these words? The greatest asset the British have in these trying days is character.

GREAT EXPERIMENT

"My purpose in discussing events in the Pacific is to stimulate interest in an absorbing topic. We cannot either justify or condemn British policy in China, or even know what it is, without a knowledge of events in that far eastern nation for at least the past one hundred years. We should realize that the Pacific is a great experimental station in which we are virtually interested.

"We are beginning to realize that Europe may become the back door to our national establishment while the Pacific rapidly assumes the place of a front door entrance. The Pacific and the countries around its rim is assuming a new significance, while its great cities like Hongkong and Shanghai, have reached a place among the world's emporiums matching the great ports of Europe and of the Atlantic seaboard.

"I do not say the Orient is a new discovery for the western world. I only say it is being discovered anew. By the sixteenth century land routes to the East were closed by Turkish occupation. The travelers were compelled to find a new way to China by sea. The Portuguese led the way and her navigators reached Japan. Here we had the dawn of the Pacific era.

"After 'happening' Pacific discoveries from the days of Balboa to Captain Cook, Mr. Justice Macdonald touched on the Chinese attitude of hostility to Western methods and continued 'Japan's welcoming Occidental ways and therewith establishing a strong government capable of assuring safety and justice to foreigners. As a result the foreign concessions in Japan had been abolished generations ago. He expressed the view that China's chief trouble was not derived from extra-territorial rights enjoyed by foreigners, but was traceable to internal political and economic causes aggravated by lack of social discipline and order.

"To illustrate this point he cited the prevalence of famine, which Chinese leaders have not the knowledge or energy to cope with, while no country was so much in need of western contact so that works based on scientific knowledge might be started and methods of proved worth applied.

GREAT CHANGES

"There is a great transformation going on in China in modes of life and methods of living, and every single change from Oriental to Occidental habits of life and standards of living among that huge population means trade opportunities to an ever-growing extent for wide-awake nations on this American continent. We are startled by the amazing strides made by Japan in eighty years, yet some cannot conceive a slower but somewhat similar advance in China.

"At present in parts of the Interior manners and customs are very similar to those in Palestine at the time of Christ. But in future years we will see them moving about, not in rich shaws but in up-to-date contrivances just as we do. Does that suggest trade possibilities? But why continue to fill in the picture? Modern towns, inhabited by people of a new era, clothed in western garb, consuming flour, with all the wants and requirements of modern civilization, imagination must be left to contemplate the picture of this ancient giant, shrouded for centuries by insular conceptions, breaking its bonds.

"Who can doubt that such is the picture of the future? When that day comes vessels of commerce will be seen leaving our shores laden with goods to supply its needs. If we in the northern half of this continent do not get a fair share of that trade, then we are lagging in the race.

PROGRESSING SLOWLY

"China is slowly but steadily advancing towards a settled government. How long it will take is another question. There is a slow but steady transformation going on in China. The Chinese are largely destitute of leadership, with all the wants and requirements of modern civilization, imagination must be left to contemplate the picture of this ancient giant, shrouded for centuries by insular conceptions, breaking its bonds.

"The great deep current of thought, life and interest in China moves steadily on to its destined goal, a settled government, free, which is like it or not, from foreign control. China will make her own experiments and commit her own fault.

"Mr. Justice Macdonald then directed attention to the opportunities in trade with Japan, with a review of the notable progress made by the Island Empire. The singular parallel existing between the British Isles off the coast of Europe and the Japanese group strewn down the Asiatic coastline was sketched with vigorous strokes. Looking into the future, he portrayed Canada, New Zealand and Australia as lands having a greater population than the British Isles and bearing the torch of progress which had been traveling westward since the greatness of Athens. His Lordship concluded with an appeal for promotion of universal amity, as being essential to a full exchange of commerce between the nations of the Pacific bowl.

SPAIN'S LANGUAGE AROUSES DEPUTIES

Madrid, Sept. 21. — Miguel Uamundo, University of Salamanca professor, accused a storm of protest yesterday evening by arguing in the purest Castilian that Castilian should be the sole language of Spain.

The protests were voiced in the Basque, Catalan and Gallego dialects by deputies from those provinces. There was much debate, but no vote was taken.

The assembly approved articles of the constitution renouncing war as an instrument of national policy, and naming Madrid as the capital of the country.

AUSTRALIANS STRESS NEED OF RECIPROCITY

Goodwill Party, Guests at Luncheon, Outline Benefits of New Treaty

Canada Expected to Furnish Market for Fruits From Antipodes

Victoria to-day honored members of the Australian goodwill party here to popularize the new trade treaty between their country and Canada with a luncheon under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and Victoria Branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the Empress Hotel.

Speaking on the treaty, A. E. Hyland, director of publicity for Australia in the United Kingdom, told of its benefits to the trade between the two countries. He stated that the treaty would find a market here. C. E. Critchley, assistant Australian trade commissioner to Canada, outlined the needs of his body.

James Parfitt, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, extended a welcome to the visitors on behalf of that organization and wished them every success in their mission.

W. A. Lupey, chairman of the local branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, acted as chairman and called upon Captain P. C. Brown, chairman of the B.C. branch of the C.M.A., to introduce the speakers.

"In Australia we are determined to give Canada all the patronage we can and from what we have heard here we believe there is a complementary feeling in Canada," Mr. Hyland said.

Particularly in British Columbia people were interested in the treaty Mr. Hyland continued. He expressed his confidence in the willingness of Australians to direct their lumber purchases to Canada and this province in particular. Similarly did his people look forward to importing more Canadian salmon and machinery.

"It is our hope that you will find a better and wider market in Australia just as we expect to export more goods to this land," he said.

"It is well to remember that Canada and Australia are complementary to and not competitive with each other. Canada is a temperate country, while Australia extends from the temperate to the tropical zones. In each country something is produced which the other needs and the bonds between them there is this great blessing, that while it is winter in one it is summer in the other, so the production season in Australia quite happily may serve to fill the gap caused by the falling off in production during winter in Canada," went on Mr. Hyland.

"We hope to encroach upon the trade of other countries in order to give the members of the Empire the advantage," Mr. Hyland said.

"While this might be to the detriment of outside nations, it would help to strengthen the bonds between the sister dominions," he continued.

"It would be a shame if the countries who stood together so well in war were not able to do so in peace," he added.

"Canada and Australia were pioneers in the movement to give preference to Empire units."

"It was very regrettable that Canada was not given more publicity in Australia. If it were, more people of the land would undoubtedly be attracted to the Dominion, Mr. Hyland continued."

"No," accused replied.

"Did you have anything to drink that day?"

ANOTHER IS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Sixteen-year-old Boy Is Arraigned in Court on Death of Nurse Violet Elderton

Cannot Afford Counsel, Says Father of Boy

Making the third manslaughter case now before the courts here, a sixteen-year-old boy was charged in the City Police Court this morning in connection with the death of Miss Violet Elderton, well-known nurse, who was knocked from a bicycle at the intersection of Cook and Yates streets on September 2.

The other charges are against Vernon Edgway, who will appear to-morrow for preliminary hearing on a count arising out of the death of Thomas Watson, customs officer, and Robert D. Hall, charged on the death of Lloyd Edgway, three-and-one-half year old boy. Preliminary hearing is fixed for Wednesday.

The boy was remanded until Wednesday and released on the understanding that his father, who was appearing, would return to the court this morning he could not afford to secure counsel.

As the outcome of another accident in which a street car struck a truck, came together at the intersection of Fifth Street and Hillside Avenue on September 10, Sava Diminysta, the driver, appeared in the City Police Court this morning on a charge of driving to the common danger. Two persons were hurt in this crash. Diminysta was remanded until Thursday.

On an ordinary case of fast driving, Alfred W. Herbert was fined $50 by Magistrate George Jay this morning when he pleaded guilty to an offence on Gorge Road while traveling to the Colwood roads on September 14.

CLASSES BEGIN AT COLLEGE

Students Welcomed at Opening Exercises This Morning

Over 200 students, with prospects of more returning in the afternoon, assembled in the auditorium of Victoria College this morning for opening exercises.

Members of the faculty who greeted the students were: H. Elliott, principal; Dr. E. B. Paul, principal-elect; and Professors Jeanette A. Cann, Ruth H. Humphrey, E. Sanderson-Mongin, G. P. Black, G. Cunningham, E. Stanley Farr and Walter H. Sage.

Principal Elliott told the students some of them would be working under strange conditions. "You will have to learn to work and think independently," he said. "If we do not teach you anything but how to think for yourself, you will be in the midst of one of the greatest social disturbances in its history," he said, and the results would most likely be profound changes in the social structure. Society, in his opinion, is gradually developing into a larger social unit. Applications for membership should be addressed to the conductor.

Richard Cooper, Victoria statistician, who spends his spare time on freak figuring, draws attention to another queer example just published under a new guise in a magazine. All Arab left seventeen camels to be divided between three sons. One was to receive a half, one a third and one a ninth. The sons found it impossible to divide the camels until they consulted with a wise man who gave them a camel to help them. Then with the number of camels eighteen, one took a half—nine; one took a third—six; one took a ninth—two; seventeen camels were distributed and the uncle took back the camel he had loaned.

Dr. Edward B. Paul, principal-elect, introduced by Principal Elliott as the Father of Victoria College, told his audience of the time when he attended the University of Aberdeen as a freshman, about sixty-eight years ago. He compared the methods, subjects and students of the two institutions and said that the advantage rested on the side of Victoria College. He delighted his listeners with reminiscences of his college days and closed by saying that the students were on the threshold of their lives. "The happiest period of their lives," he declared.

Professor E. Stanley Farr, vice-principal, and Kenneth C. Ross, president of the Students' Union, welcomed the students to the college and told them of certain rules which had to be obeyed. By the assembly closed with the giving of classes by the registrar, Walter H. Sage.

Lectures will commence to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock and will continue until the beginning of December when the seasonal examinations will be held.

Judge Langman, in the County Court this morning reserved judgment in the suit of Horace Shallard against the Royal Wood Company for $80, in lieu of notice of dismissal from his position as driver of a wood truck. The defence was that the plaintiff had no driver's license. The discovery was made by the plaintiff on the truck. N. W. Whittaker appeared for the plaintiff Shallard and Frank Higgins, K.C., for the defence.

Hampton Hall, the headquarters of the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club, was well filled on Saturday evening when the Ladies' Club held a military 500. The first prize was won by Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Batterby, Mr. F. Harman and Mr. F. G. Spencer, and the table winning the second prize consisted of Mrs. Mercer, Mrs. Deveson, Mr. J. W. Mercer and Mrs. Woodman. At the conclusion of the game, refreshments were served by the ladies, who will hold another military 500 next Saturday evening.

Reports that 8,000 tons of tomatoes may be lost in the vine this year because the cost of handling grapes has been made to the provincial government. In some districts growers are reported to be throwing the grapes away, because they believe there is no outlet for the crop which usually goes to canners. Similar trouble in disposing of pears is also reported. A study of the situation with the view of expanding canning operations has been suggested to the government.

The Victoria Madrigal Society, under the conductorship of Stanley Bulley, will hold its rehearsal this evening on Tuesday evenings at 8 o'clock. This season's activities will include not only madrigals of the sixteenth century, but also contemporary works with orchestra, which will be performed some time during the spring. There are a few vacancies in all sections for singers with good voices and for good sight-readers. At the recent general meeting the society's hope was expressed that it might gradually develop into a larger choral society. Applications for membership should be addressed to the conductor.

Richard Cooper, Victoria statistician, who spends his spare time on freak figuring, draws attention to another queer example just published under a new guise in a magazine. All Arab left seventeen camels to be divided between three sons. One was to receive a half, one a third and one a ninth. The sons found it impossible to divide the camels until they consulted with a wise man who gave them a camel to help them. Then with the number of camels eighteen, one took a half—nine; one took a third—six; one took a ninth—two; seventeen camels were distributed and the uncle took back the camel he had loaned.

VIENNA HALTS EXCHANGE SALES

Vienna, Sept. 21.—The Austrian government at the conclusion of a cabinet meeting to-day ordered the National Bank and other institutions not to sell foreign exchange. The purchase by private individuals of foreign currency, warrants or drafts, also was forbidden.

The stock market, closed on account of Yom Kippur, probably will not reopen until further orders.

PHILIP THINKS DEPRESSION HAS PASSED CRISIS

Deputy Minister of Public Works Reviews Road Programme

More Works and Less Taxation Cannot Go Together Gyro Club Told

Expressing confidence that the crisis of the world depression had been passed by Canada and deprecating the inconsistency of communities which, after demanding costly public works and road building programmes, send memorials to the government in support of trenchant economies in public expenditures, Patrick Philip, Deputy Minister of Public Works, before the Gyro Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel, this afternoon, discussed problems involved in the administration of the highways of British Columbia and provision of relief work.

Mr. Philip compared the strides made in highway construction and extension in the last twenty years, as a result of development of high speed vehicles, with the lack of progress in the centuries from the Roman ox wagons.

Mr. Philip reviewed the history of road development from the days of Roman military highways to the modern roadless middle ages of rubber barons to the toll roads which preceded macadam and other leaders in development of scientific highway engineering.

The record of accidents showed the more serious occurred on straight roads, not at the obviously dangerous intersections. As a result the majority of the general public had to suffer restrictions and penalties designed to curb the carelessness of the few. The Public Works Department was energetic in eliminating roadside highway dangers, such as high cordwood stacks and Mr. Philip said the provincial police were co-operating with workers for protection of traffic.

"The Provincial Police is a force second to none in the world," said Mr. Philip.

The present programme of public works was outlined as including the Trans-Canada Highway through Hope and Lytton, 600 miles long; the trans-provincial highway of 700 miles from Prince Rupert through the Yellowhead Pass, the southern provincial road through the Crow's Nest Pass, 600 miles long; and the north and south highway traversing the interior for 250 miles.

Mr. Philip said it was not the policy of the government to take married men from their homes to provide camps if nearby work could be provided. Further, it was the policy of the department to give work to moneyless farmers who had to provide food for livestock and supplies for their families.

"The whole policy of the government is to provide work for the needy. There are over 40,000 registered unemployed in this province," he said. The chief unemployment problem concerned residents in municipalities. Touching on the question of providing for Vancouver's "jungle," a call was last week issued for fifty men to go to a camp. Only six or seven men were forward. The rest preferred to "handle a meal or a place to sleep," Mr. Philip said.

For men who cannot be given work, groceries and foodstuffs were available under the scheme of direct relief. The proposition to be paid in future by the municipalities would not be known until Senator Gideon Robertson, Dominion Minister of Labor, had met the government this week.

Mr. Philip appealed to the Gyros and other service clubs to assist in coping with unemployment problems, and expressed appreciation of constructive suggestions and other aid already given by such bodies.

While cost of highways was high, it was notable that people and districts which were insistent in demands for improvements were later heard in urgent support of lower taxes and trenchant economies. Mr. Philip remarked that the two were inseparable. He told of the extensive preliminary studies by experts which were invariably made before any large road undertakings were approved by the department.

UNITE ACTION TO LEAD WORLD IN RECOVERY

President Hoover Calls Upon American Legion to Fight for Economy

Olympia Arena, Detroit, Sept. 21.—President Hoover to-day called upon the American Legion to enlist in a peace time fight for government economy, designed to lead the world out of the slough of depression.

Warning the annual convention of the legionnaires against the "grave risks" of increase of the federal expenditures, either through further veterans or other legislation, the president said the world economic crisis was "second only to war." He expressed confidence that "by united action we will lead the world in recovery."

The president pointed out the treasury was faced with another large deficit; that income taxes had declined 30 per cent since the period of prosperity; that the nation was carrying at the same time a "high and necessary extra burden" of public works to aid unemployed and agriculture and to give increased benefits to veterans.

BRITAIN'S ACTION SEEN BY FRANCE AS INEVITABLE

Developments Expected to Force European Financial Conference

Paris, Sept. 21.—The French government was considering with the greatest solicitation to-day the suspension of the gold standard in Great Britain with relation to its possible reactions in France.

Minister of Finance Glandin is understood to have summoned his financial experts from Geneva for a conference at which urgent measures would be discussed, although it was not able to come to a decision without technical advice.

It was suspected in informed quarters that all or a large share of the recent Franco-United States credit of $400,000,000 had been used up by Great Britain and that her action was inevitable, although it came sooner than generally expected.

It was remarked that the British measures likely would have the effect of greatly encouraging the significance of the coming visit by Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand to Berlin, which it is hoped may precipitate consideration of Europe's pressing problems as a whole.

PEOPLE SHOULD BE OPTIMISTIC

Frank Barnjum, Conservationist, Says Rebound to Good Times Will Be Great

Now is the time for optimism in the opinion of Frank J. D. Barnjum, noted conservationist and prominent business man of Nova Scotia, who is visiting this city. Mr. Barnjum, who has just purchased his second block of timber at Sahlman, near Cowichan Lake, said that the generations to come can gaze upon some of the timber monarchs which logging companies are rapidly slashing off the face of Vancouver Island.

"When the public were madly optimistic and were buying stocks and everything else regardless of their value I was a pessimist, while to-day when the great majority are pessimists I am an optimist, for the simple reason that the public have now been brought back to earth and have learned an important lesson," said Mr. Barnjum this morning.

The trouble with the world to-day is psychological, in other words, people have lost their heads and have gone just as crazy pessimistically as they were crazy optimistically at the height of the late boom. There is just as much money in the country now as there was then, there are just as many people to be clothed and fed and all it needs to start the wheels of industry moving is a return of confidence, or I might say a return to simple sanity. Good times have always succeeded bad and the rebound will be greater the rebound will be.

"The main trouble with the British Empire to-day, which is merely of temporary duration, is that it has been governed for the past few years by a body of inexperienced men. At a time when the best and biggest brains of the Empire were needed at the helm. This is, however, a situation that will be righted as soon as the Britishers have an opportunity of electing a government able to manage the affairs of the world's greatest empire, and with a government in whom the people can have confidence the troubles of the past will soon be forgotten and the glaring mistakes of the late government very soon rectified."

"The only subject over which I am pessimistic is the world's wood supply which is totally inadequate for the future demands that will be put upon it. The moment business assumes normal proportions, which will be very soon, and even this is something that can be quite materially helped even at this late date by sane regulation and control in cutting on the part of our government."

Yachting Season Is Officially Closed

R. F. Blandy's Boykin Declared Winner of the Long-streth Cup; David Bruce and Billy Anderson in the Margaret Win Crews' Race and Dr. John Harper in the Onaway Wins Veterans' Race in Dinghy Events Saturday Afternoon

Bob Blandy's starboat Boykin was declared the winner of the Longstreth Cup, and David Bruce and Billy Anderson in the Margaret and Dr. John Harper in the Onaevents for crews and veterans respectively at the closing events of the season, held under the auspices of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club in Cadboro Bay Saturday afternoon.

The handsome 12-month-old Greyhound Cup was won for a series of starboat races. The Boykin entered six races, captured three and made an average of 77.03 per cent. Second was the Bluebird, sailed by the 1936 champion, and third was the Bluebird, sailed by the 1936 champion. In the other events, took fifteen points and made an average of 68.02 per cent. The Bluebird, sailed by the 1936 champion, entered six races, capturing three and making an average of 59.01 per cent. The Gentle, M. F. Blandy, did not qualify.

On Saturday onlwo starboats were racing, the Bluebird and the Boykin. The Bluebird was piloted by the Genie in the absence of Bob Blandy through illness. Over about a five nautical mile race, the Bluebird was the victor, the bird covering the distance in 1 hour, 21 mins. 16 secs. The Boykin took 1 hour, 24 mins. 10 secs. The Bluebird's pilot was disqualified and the Genie did not enter. This was the re-sailed race of August 10.

THE CREWS' RACE

The scheduled crews' race in the dinghies was an exciting event. The trim little boats, their white spinnakers of canvas making a perfect picture against the blue sky, with their puffs of great white clouds, sailed over the three nautical mile course set from the moorings towards the Island and back around the Bay to the starting point just off the main float. In the Margaret, two youngsters, David Bruce and Billy Anderson, covered the course in 38 mins. 32 secs. Less than a minute behind them came Miss Yvonne Mitchell in the Tern, her time being 43 mins. 20 secs. Next came the Guilford, sailed by Nigel Tomlin, time 41:20; fourth was the Kismet, Dr. John Harmer, time 42:35; fifth, the Onaway, H. W. T. 43:55; sixth, the Astus, H. Dorothy Dix

"A Tactful Woman Is One Who Never Steps On Our Toes," Declares Dorothy Dix—"Who Skirts Nimbly Around Our Prejudices Instead of Running Roughshod Over Them."

A WOMAN correspondent asks: "What is tact? What is your idea of a tactful woman?" Tact is that sixth sense that makes us divine things with our hearts that we cannot fathom with our heads. It is the gift of the gods that makes us say the right thing to people instead of the wrong thing. It is the lubricant that keeps social and family life moving on oiled bearings without friction. It is the magic that enables a wife to manage her husband without his ever finding it out. It is the apotheosis of the proper approach and the sublimation of super-salesmanship.

My idea of a woman of tact is one who never steps on our toes and who skirts nimbly around our prejudices instead of running roughshod over them. One who perceives our "keep-off-the-grass" signs and respects them even when we do not flaunt them in her face. One who can say "no" without giving offence or making enemies and who can even tell us of our faults in a way that flatters our vanity instead of wounding our self-love.

The woman of tact recognizes that it saves time and energy and painful bruises to walk around a stone wall instead of trying to butt it down with her head. Therefore, when she has to deal with people who are, as the old phrase goes, "set" in their opinions, she does not argue with them. She lets them hold in peace to their own beliefs, as she does to her own. And just because she does not keep them perpetually on the defensive championing their own point of view, they insensibly modify it and often come to her way of thinking.

Nor does the woman of tact ever drag forth into the family circle those topics that are like a red rag to a mad bull and that inevitably precipitate a free-for-all fight. On the contrary, she keeps the forbidden subject locked up tight and fast in the skeleton closet, and when she perceives any member of the household about to approach the door she lures them away from it and steers the conversation into safer channels.

The tactful wife does not rawly henpeck her husband and make him an object of derision for the neighborhood. She does not make him a person of small account in his own home and blatantly flaunt her own authority. Far from exalting him so continuously as the head of the house and pays him much outward homage that he never finds out that she really runs things.

When she wants a thing, she does not go after it hammer and tongs and irritate a tired and busy man so that he refuses her what she asks just because he is weary and cross and feels like hitting back at something. She waits for the psychological moment when, fed and rested, after a good dinner, he is at peace with all the world and in a benevolent mood. Then she asks favors and gets them.

The tactful woman studies her man and deals with him accordingly. If her husband is self-opinionated, she first suggests casually to him the thing she wants done and, after having sown the mustard seed of her desire, she comes back in a few days and camps in its shade and says: "I have been thinking out what you said about sending John off to college" or "getting a new" or "having the library done over, and I think you are right and that should do it. Your judgment is always so sound." And the thing is done, as she had determined from the first.

If she is married to a stingy man, she does not fight with him over an allowance or wheedle pennies out of him. She goes and gets what she wants and tells that, of course, she has to dress handsomely because everybody expects it of the wife of such a prominent man as he is.

The tactful woman never corrects her children in public, because that humiliates them and makes them surly, nor does she continually nag them out their defects, because that breaks down their morale and develops an inferiority complex. She rules them by judicious praise and encourages them to make the most of themselves by putting the loud pedal on their good qualities.

She tells Mary how pretty she is when her face wears that lovely sweet expression and Mary conquers her high temper for fear of breaking up that angel look. She tells Sally how graceful she is when she holds herself upright and Sally throws back her shoulders and straightens her spine and quits slouching. In the presence of strangers she asks John when some historical event occurred and casually remarks that John is a perfect hawk about dates and that starts John on a career as a student. She tells Arthur to take his task by praising him for his grit in carrying it. She makes her children feel that they have a reputation to sustain along certain lines and consequently they live up to it.

The tactful woman never loses a friend because she always does and says kindly things. She gives us enough and not too much of her society. She never pays unexpected visits. She never asks indiscreet questions, nor pries into our affairs. She keeps her fingers out of our family pies and does not call upon to tell us the things about our husbands and children that would rather die than know. She does not attempt to force her religion, friends, her doctor, nor her dressmaker upon us. She is always there when we want her and never underfoot when we do not want her.

She praises the things that she likes and keeps silent about those she does not like. She tells us what a lovely new hat we have without remarking that it is not our shape nor color, nor that it is ten years too young for us. And she never, never asks us if we do not think we are putting on weight.

In a word, the tactful woman is the incarnation of the Golden Rule. She treats everybody as she would like to be treated.

Early Telephones

We often speak of "telephone girls" but we refer to the operators who tie the wires and plugs used to connect our telephone calls; but fifty years ago, the proper expression was "phone boys."

The time of which I speak, the phone invention was only fifteen years old.

On the same day Bell applied for a patent—February 14, 1876—a Chicago inventor named Elisha Gray filed a claim at the Washington patent office, saying that he had worked on the telephone idea and should be regarded as the true inventor. Bell's patent was allowed, however, and we may be sure that he deserved great credit for his work.

Bell was a young man—only twenty-nine years of age—when he obtained his telephone patent. Born in Scotland, he migrated to Canada and then to the United States. He became interested in the deaf and dumb, and taught in a school at Boston.

The story of how Bell showed his invention at the Philadelphia Centennial exposition often has been told. The tired judges were preparing to pass by his exhibit when Dom Pedro, Emperor of Brazil, caught sight of the inventor. Dom Pedro was a guest of honor at the exposition. He walked over to speak to Bell (whom he had previously met in Boston), and called the attention of the judges to the telephone. All were amazed when they "heard the wires speak."

BURSARIES ARE GIVEN TWENTY CITY STUDENTS

Victorians Secure Good Percentage of Awards Made By Education Department

Island Candidates Also Successful in New Government Award System

Twenty-one of the seventy bursaries given by the Department of Education to meritorious students continuing their studies at Victoria College and the University of British Columbia were awarded to Victorians. It was announced by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, Minister of Education, Saturday. Ten more went to other Island and Gulf Island candidates.

Mr. Hinchliffe paid tribute to the manner in which the committee which had assisted him, had carried out their work. High academic standing and a definite purpose were shown by those to whom the awards were given.

The minister explained the method of selection as follows: The names were first submitted to a committee appointed by the board of governors of the university, which made its recommendations, based on the academic standing of the students. The committee making the final selections, while very largely adopting the recommendations made by the university committee, did not adopt those recommendations in their entirety, as it had other matters in addition to academic standing to consider. This committee was composed of Professor E. A. Fair of Victoria College; Charles Swaine, editor of The Colonist; and B. C. Nicholas, editor of The Times, and very carefully considered all applications and recommendations.

SPECIAL CAMP FOR VETERANS

Will Be Opened, If Necessary, Says Minister of Public Works

If the need for such a camp is found to exist the provincial government will establish a work camp for unemployed disabled war veterans. Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, announced Saturday.

Frequent requests for special consideration for ex-soldiers who are unable to do the heavy work of ordinary road camps have been made to the government and veterans' organizations have pointed out there are hundreds of men in the province in this category. Soldier clubs are registering unemployed veterans, making note of the disabilities from which they suffer.

In Vancouver the home operated last year for ex-service men in need has been reopened with government assistance to give aid to a limited number of men.

Wet Weather All Over Province Ends Serious Hazard in Province

The end of critical forest fire conditions for the year is indicated in the weekly bulletin of the forestry branch which recorded only twenty-four outbreaks all over the province last week.

All districts report wet weather and at the end of the week there was only one fire still burning. During the fire season 3,441 blazes have occurred in B.C. as compared with 2,129 last year and 1,964 in 1929. The southern interior suffered the greatest with 951 outbreaks. The Vancouver area, which includes the Island, had 437, fewer than last year. The Prince George, Prince Rupert and Cariboo districts also showed a lower fire total as compared with last year, but Kamloops and the southern interior were much higher.
